INJUNCTION SUSTAINED IN SCRIP CASE

Hearings Finished In Court

FLASH — At 2:30 this afternoon Mr. Justice Tweedie gave his decision sustaining the injunction preventing the city from accepting scrip for relief purposes from the provincial government. It is likely that an appeal will be taken.

Judgment was reserved by Mr. Justice Tweedie at noon Wednesday on the preliminary objections taken by Harold J. Wilson, K.C., acting for the province, against the pleadings in the action brought by Ronald H. Watson to restrain the city from entering into an agreement with the province to accept prosperity certificates in lieu of cash grants for relief purposes.

Hearing of argument to dissolve the interim injunction granted by Mr. Justice Tweedie will be proceeded with Wednesday afternoon.

The preliminary objections taken by Mr. Wilson were that the plaintiff did not have the right to sue without having the attorney general of the province joined in the action, that the injunction must be dissolved as the plaintiff could not show he had suffered irreparable damage, and that there had been misstatements of fact in the statement of claim on which presumably the injunction had been granted.

ADMISSION MADE

Admission was made by C. H. Grant, K.C., counsel opposing the agreement, that the statement of

HAVOC CAUSED BY GOVERNMENT SAYS BOWLEN

Liberal Leader Charges Socreds Ruin the Province

Charging that the Social Credit government had brought havoc to business throughout Alberta and that it had driven from the province capital totaling $4,000,000 since it came into office on Sept. 3 last, John J. Bowlen, Liberal house leader, in continuing the Throne Speech debate in the legislature on Wednesday declared that companies that had carried on business here for many years, were not renewing warehouse space pending decision by the government as to future action.

Mr. Bowlen, in the course of a spirited, vigorous address, in which he covered a wide range of topics, charged that Calgary manufacturers had been threatened that unless they co-operated with the government, the latter would start up in business in opposition.

Mr. Bowlen charged that Albertans who refused to sign the cov-

Have you played the new parlor game of "Knock, Knock"? Everybody's doing it.

In this game your pronunciation may not always be what you learned in school, but you must have something really important to say.

"Knock, knock!" That's us again.

"Who's there?"

"Betty."

"Betty who?"

"Betty can't duplicate the value elsewhere."

My! Are our knuckles getting sore! But we're still game.

"Knock, knock!"

"Who's there?"

"Annie."

"Annie who?"

"Annie time is Want Ad time."

He's After A Formula For Peace

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

ROOSEVELT TO PURSUE PEACE IF RE-ELECTED

Would Invite King Edward and Other World Leaders to Meet

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The New York Times reported today that President Roosevelt is giving serious consideration, if he is re-elected, to inviting heads of several nations to confer on means of incuring world peace.

If the proposal is carried out, the paper said, Mr. Roosevelt would ask King Edward, Joseph Stalin, Benito Mussolini, Adolf Hitler, President Lebrun of France, representatives of Japan and China, and a few others to meet with him at a convenient site.

BEST POSITION

Mr. Roosevelt has told his friends, the paper said, that in event of his re-election, he believes "he will be in the best position any American President has ever been to promote the cause of world peace."

The cause of war and prospects of disarmament would be discussed, the article continued, with the conferees personally agreeing to use their influence to prevent war in any part of the world.

Mr. Roosevelt feels that, even if the conference amounted to no more than a gesture, it would be a powerful one and certain to delay

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 — Scottish bakers who for generations have made bread by the long fermentation process are shifting gradually to the short fermentation method and the result may be a reduction of Canadian wheat purchases, Harry Miller, cereal technologist of the experimental farms, stated in a report today to Hon. # MAYOR CLARKE SEEKS CUT IN INTEREST RATE

Action should be taken by the special session of the legislature now sitting to enact legislation which would forbid cities and municipalities paying an interest rate of more than three per cent on bonds or debentures Mayor J. A. Clarke, K.C., declared today.

"In Ontario where municipalities are over $100 000,000 in default this action was taken by Premier Mitchell Hepburn to ease the burden on the tapayers on those municipalities, and our position in Alberta is just as bad as their's in Ontario," said Mayor Clarke. "The City of Edmonton cannot without practically confiscating property, levy a tax rate of more thrn 55 mills, in itself an exorbitant rate, and I believe that the present is a very opportune time to impress upon the governments which has authority to deal with the matter, the importance of giving substantial consideration to our condition."

LEGISLATIVE ACTION

Definite enaction of provincial legislation preventing any city council in Alberta from levying more than a rate sufficient to pay the three per cent suggested as fair and equitable under present circumstances would meet the situation, Mayor Clarke believes.

"The question of the legality of such a measure being enacted in Alberta can hardly arise when Ontario has already taken such action" he said, "and I believe that the government would have widespread support in any move made along this line to relieve the burden now cast upon the cities and municipalities by climbing relief costs.

"It appears useless to wait for an offer by the bondholders," he said, "and the only way is for the government, which has the power, to take the necessary action. The sooner the situation is faced the better for all concerned.

"I believe that if such action is not taken," he continued, "the bond-holders face the possibility of not only losing all their interest but also part of their principal. Meanwhile there is the plight of the home owners to consider, and the time to consider it, is now before so many more of them lose their homes and all they possess."

He hauled in his line to find he had hooked a delapidated wallet containing a $2 bill and five $1 bills.

JUDGE FORD IS IN LINE FOR HIGHER BENCH

Edmonton Jurist May Succeed to Chief of Supreme Court

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—With judicial appointments in various provinces occupying the attention of the cabinet, Mr. Justice Frank Ford of Edmonton, now on the bench of the Trial Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta, is considered the most likely successor to Chief Justice Simmons of that court, who retires on September 1, although Mr. Justice Charles Mitchell of Edmonton, who his been in Ottawa for some time past, also has strong support.

Mr. Justice Mitchell is a member of the Appellate Division of the Alberta Supreme Court but has been sitting as head of the Farmer-Creditor Arrangement Act tribunal for some months past. He is said to look with favor on the possibility of being the successor to Chief Justice Simmons.

STRONGLY BACKED

C. C. McLaurin, K.C., and Joseph T. Shaw, K.C., both of Calgary, are strongly backed for the vacancy created on the bench by the elevation of any sitting member to the Chief Justiceship. S. J. Shepherd, K.C., of Lethbridge is also said to have strong support of influential party members for either the Supreme Court vacancy or for the District Court vacancy caused by the recent death of Judge Green of Medicine Hat.

Edmonton men are prominently mentioned for the Supreme Court vacancy, although it is hardly possible that the post will come to that city owing to the recent appointment of Mr. Justice W. R. Howson.

THOSE MENTIONED

If the appointment does go to Edmonton the choice will lie between Neil D. Maclean, K.C., H. H. Parlee, K.C., George D. Conner, K.C., and J. Boyd McBride, K.C., it is stated here.

Some forty appointments are at present under consideration by the cabinet. They include appointments to the judiciary, the directorate of the Bank of Canada, the Railway Commission, Radio Commission, Harbor Administration, Civil Service Commission, appointments under the Pensions Boards, Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act boards and other boards and commissions set up by parliament.

LABOR BOARD TO BE FORMED

Provision for a provincial labor board is made in a new Hours of Labor Act, which will be brought down at the current special session of the legislature, Hon. Ernest C. Manning, provincial secretary and minister of trade and industry declared on Wednesday.

The Minister stated that as a preliminary to introducing this Act, several minor amending bills were introduced by him at the opening of the house on Tuesday.

These were amending bills to the Minimum Wage, Male Minimum Wage and Factories acts and were to bring the acts under the Hours of Labor measure.

Under the new act there will be provision for a maximum 48 hour week for women and 54 for men, said the minister.

Replying to a question, the minister said that the purpose of the new legislation was to consolidate labor hours instead of having this control under different acts. The new Act would be along broader lines, as provision would be made for the new board dealing with labor hours on lines that might later come under its authority.

DEMANDS AID FOR STRICKEN OF PROVINCE

"Usury and Interest" Must Be Dealt With, Claims Member

Moving the address adopting the Speech from the Throne in the legislature on Wednesday, Fred Anderson, Social Credit member of the legislature for Calgary strongly urged that the government formulate and implement plans for the assistance of settlers in drought areas.

Action rather than words was necessary, declared Mr. Anderson.

"There are on our prairies and in our foothills and in our cities, men and women facing a future that looks bleak and desperate," said Mr. Anderson. "There are men and women who see all that they have worked for and hoped for, fading into nothingness and the foundation upon which they built their lives, turning to quicksand, men and women who are fast losing hope and who look to us to do something to help them."

FACING EMERGENCY

Mr. Anderson made a sincere plea for the setting aside of party considerations in dealing with matters to be brought before the session.

"Alberta is face to face with an emergency and very properly, an emergent session of this house has been called and I would say to this house that we on this side have an idea, backed by the majority of the citizens of the province, which we believe in all sincerity will tend to end suffering and bring happiness to our fellow-citizens. I would beg the members of the opposite side of this house to believe in our sincerity and that as far as in their political consciences will permit.

"I would still more sincerely beseech the members on this side of the house to remember that every man in this house being an human man, is sincerely desirous of doing something to help his fellowmen.

ACTION IS NEEDED

"Let us forget our petty political differences for these few days at least and devote all our endeavours to bring about some legislation that will give hope and inspiration to the province that we all love."

Coniending that under the existing economic system "of usury and interest" people of Alberta have been "reduced to a state of pitiable slavery with nothing to look forward to but the lash of the taskmaster," N. B. James, Social Credit member of the legislature for Badia, seconded the motion to adopt the Speech from the Throne in the legislature on Wednesday. He succeeded Fred Anderson, S.C., Calgary, on the floor of the house.

Mr. James urged that "it must be our first and immediate duty to pass the necessary legislation to lift this awful burden from the shoulders of our people."

ENDURED MUCH

Mr. James declared that "The people of this province have endured much year after year, working and struggling manfully and bravely against fearful odds. They have seen their hopes and ambitions blasted, their wealth, or such wealth as they had, dwindle and disappear under the climatic conditions, the unjust price and the greedy, grasping grasp of the monied interests. But the time has come when they can endure no more."

PRAIRIES GET FIRST FROST

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26.—Frost appeared on the prairie weather map for the first time this season today, with temperature at Kamsack, Sask., 150 miles north-east of Regina, near the Manitoba boundary, dropping to 32 degrees last night.

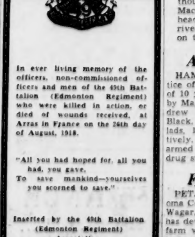

Several other Saskatchewan and Manitoba points recorded 36 degrees.

Harvesting delay appeared in prospect in scattered localities in Alberta and Saskatchewan following moderate to heavy overnight rains. Manitoba was generally free of precipitation.

Heaviest downpour was at Empress, Alta., east of Calgary, near the Saskatchewan boundary, where rainfall totalled 2.42 inches. Outlook, Sask., 150 miles north-west of Regina, recorded 1.06 inches. Saskatoon, Indian Head, Yorkton and Melville were other Saskatchewan points getting .20 inches or more. Red Deer, Alta., received .40, and Lethbridge, Alta., .23.

5% Is The Limit

An Editorial

HONORABLE CHARLES A. DUNNING, Minister of Finance, has fixed a maximum interest rate of 5% for farm and home loans under the Farm Loan Board and the Dominion Housing Act. THESE RATES APPLY TO ALL OF THE NINE PROVINCES IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

Financial institutions still demand in Alberta from 7% to 9% interest on farm and home loans without the slightest justification to collect such usurious rates under conditions such as exist today.

The Provincial Government has the absolute power to put an immediate stop to the collecting of all interest in excess of 5%. The Legislature is now in session and should proceed forthwith to enact legislation to protect the public.

Debt postponement is all the relief a citizen of Alberta has had in the past six years of unparalleled hardships, UNLESS THE DEBTOR HAS GONE THROUGH BANKRUPTCY IN ONE FORM OR ANOTHER.

Premier Hepburn of Ontario was in office only a few months when he cut interest rates in half on government borrowings and reduced farm loans under the Ontario Board to 4% interest. He further prohibited any municipality (in default) from paying more than 3% interest on its outstanding liabilities. This effected $100 millions of debt and saved Ontario taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

Alberta, according to Premier Aberhart, owes more than $600 millions in public and private debts which cannot be paid on the present high interest basis. That being the case, why not take courageous action to remedy the situation and prevent further unnecessary confiscation of a citizen's property?

THE UNANIMOUS DEMAND OF ALBERTANS IS FOR ACTION AND ACTION NOW!

Government Issues Plans For Cattle In Drought Zones

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—Plans to move young cattle from the drought area of Western Canada were announced today by Hon. James G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture. The plans covered movement to parts of the prairies outside the drought area as well as eastern Canada. The minister has submitted his plans to the cabinet and they have been accepted.

Through the department of agriculture the government will pay the railway fare, or what would equal the railway fare, to any eastern farmer or representative of a group of eastern farmers who will go west, purchase a carload or more of cattle and bring them east to be fed.

PAY FREIGHT

It will also pay an amount equal to half the freight paid by any farmer who is still feeding cattle brought from the west three months after he receives them.

While there are too many in the drought area, the minister explained that application had come to him from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and the Ottawa valley for cattle from the western fields.

"There is a surplus of fodder to feed cattle to good advantage from Ottawa to the Atlantic the minister was informed. By moving the young cattle from the drought areas, it would prevent their finding

Royal Canadian Aviators Hopeful of Finding Lost Companions

FORT McMURRAY, Alta., Aug. 26.—Search for Flight Lieutenant S. W. Coleman and leading aircraftsman Joe Forty, missing since Monday, August 17 when they set out on a 240-mile southbound flight to Fort Reliance from a small lake 100 miles below the Arctic circle, in the barren lands, is still being pressed by Royal Canadian Air Force aviators.

Can You Pass Frances Drake's Test For Safe Drivers? Try This Poser List

Looks like Frances Drake's started something! The pretty movie actress has gotten interested in traffic safety and she's waiting for the correct answers to her own "Safety Driving" questionnaire, printed at right. Help her out! There is satisfaction for you motorists who can answer this quiz correctly!

Frances was so impressed by her portrayal of a mile-a-minute millionaire playgirl in "And Sudden Death," that she has devised a "Safety Driving" questionnaire which she hopes will lessen the hazards of reckless driving. See how safe a driver you are!

These questions cover the most common causes of auto accidents. In each sentence the answer space provided should govern the length of your answers. No need to go into long detailed accounts—one word or a short sentence will be sufficient. A couple of driving problems are also included which a seasoned motorist should have no trouble in solving.

1. When a stop signal is given, how long does it take the average driver to apply his brakes? Ans. .....
2. On a three lane road, which lane should be used when making a left hand turn? Ans. .....
3. New tires should be worn on the ..... wheels of a car; old tires are safest on the ..... wheels.
4. If you are speeding around a curve, what force tends to sway or skid your car to the outside of the curve? Ans. .....
5. Two cars A and B are approaching each other from opposite ends of a ten mile road. Car A is travelling 60 miles an hour; Car B is going 48 miles an hour. How much time will elapse before the two cars meet each other? Ans. .....
6. If the above cars had been going in the same direction on a highway, and car B had a five minute start on car A—how many miles would car A have to drive to overtake car B? Ans. .....
7. When walking on a road, you are safest walking ..... the traffic
8. What should you do when you hear a police car or fire-engine approaching your car? Ans. .....
9. In night driving, where should you direct your eyes when faced with the blinding glare of oncoming headlights? Ans. .....
10. When you park your car on the slope of a hill what additional precautions should you take in addition to setting your emergency brake? Ans. 1 ..... or 2 .....

Research for "And Sudden Death," Paramount romance in which reckless driving plays the role of "heavy," brought to light a number of interesting facts about automobile accidents. Experts learned, for example, that most accidents come between five and six o'clock in the evening; most traffic deaths between seven and nine in the evening, and most deaths of drivers between one and six in the morning.

Bad weather is the best driving weather. Fewer people are killed when the roads are covered with sleet or snow than are killed when roads are fast and clear. The answer seems to be a matter of care.

Passengers should not face backwards while stepping from a car. First auto should stop until car has started. Second auto should not pass standing car on left side.

Woman should not get out of parked car on street side. Pedestrians should not step out into the street from in front of parked car, as approaching drivers have no way of seeing him.

Pedestrians walking on roads frequented by autos should walk against traffic, not with it. First auto headlights are too bright, and they should face down toward the road, not up, where they will blind approaching drivers.

ACTRESS GIVES UP HER DESIRE TO BE KARLOFF

Frances Drake has changed her mind. She no longer wants to be the screen's "feminine Boris Karloff."

Cast in more films of the shudder-and-shake variety than any other feminine player, Miss Drake frequently expressed a hope—in the public prints—of making the grade as Public Frightener No. 1 for the Weaker Sex.

First evidence of her weakening ambition came with her part in "And Sudden Death," in which she has a completely romantic role, the feminine lead opposite Randolph Scott. The story, while it deals with the tragedy and drama of the nation's highway accidents, is essentially a romance.

After completing "And Sudden Death," scheduled to open at the Empress theatre, Miss Drake said she planned to seek only romantic roles in the future.

IRRIGATION DAMS, TREE PLANTING IN GOVERNMENT PLAN

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—Canada is dealing with the drought problem in the prairie along a two-fold plan. On the one hand the Dominion government will join the provinces in providing emergency relief to those in need in the burnt-out districts. The relief will afford upwards of 200,000 persons it is estimated.

Along other lines it is seeking, also with the co-operation of the provinces affected, to permanently rehabilitate the districts which periodically suffer from the lack of rain causing ruined crops and dangerous soil drifting. The permanent works now being rushed to help the emergency by giving employment.

GIVE FURNITURE

The Red Cross will be asked to assist in providing household furniture where it has been depleted by a succession of dry years. Direct relief and employment will also be provided to those in need.

To permanently deal with the drought-stricken areas, a commission was appointed in 1935 under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to ameliorate droughts in the future. This year it has a grant from the federal treasury of $562,880. It plans to rehabilitate by the following works:

1—Large irrigation dams to create extensive storage basins.

2—Small dams providing storage basins from 25 acres to 200 acres.

3—Dug-outs constructed by the farmers themselves, to which the rehabilitation officers provide engineering advice as to location, where water can be stored most sucessfully and inexpensively.

Applications to the commission for small dams and dug-outs last year totalled 1,832 and some 300 have been added this year.

TO PLANT TREES

A general campaign for tree-planting has been inaugurated. The Dominion has nursery stations at Indian Head and Sutherland, Saskatchewan, from which small trees are provided. Last year 6,439,000 trees were planted. This year the nurseries have made provision to supply 9,000,000.

Two systems are following in tree planting. One is to provide dense shelter belts around the farm houses and gardens as a protection against soil drifting and to retain moisture.

The other system is more pretentious and only in its experimental stage. It is termed field crop shelter belts. Three of these belts are being established in Saskatchewan, one in Alberta and one in Manitoba to study how they work out.

air forces under Commander Perea.

The government, wildly excited by news that a white flag was flying from the Alcazar at Toledo, ordered a condon around the beleaguered fortress ready for the surrender of the 1,700 rebels within —now believed fighting among themselves.

Peace Conference In London Looms

PARIS, Aug. 26.—France proposed today a virtual conference of European powers for drafting a formal, joint plan to enforce non-intervention in the Spanish civil war.

A spokesman said the French government had asked other nations to name members of a "semi-permanent" committee which would meet, probably in London, to coordinate measures for arms embargoes and to discuss practical application of the non-intervention project.

Rebel Officers Are Executed

BARCELONA, Spain, Aug. 26.—Four Spanish rebel officers were executed by a firing squad here today after conviction by court martial.

The four, convicted of fostering rebellion against the Socialist government, were Commander Lopez Amor, and Captains Trez Belua, Lopez Varela and Liziada De La Roza.

British Seek Portuguese Aid

LONDON, Aug. 26—Sir Charles Wingfield, British ambassador at Lisbon, has been instructed by wire to urge the Portugese government to put an embargo on the export of arms to Spain.

The co-ordination committee would be a clearing house for measures by different countries for carrying out the embargo and would discuss any additional action needed to make neutrality fully effective.

Italy announced yesterday she considered the neutrality pact in effect, but said her system of export licenses made an actual embargo necessary. Germany, on Monday, announced she would effect an immediate embargo. Russia has informed France she would do likewise when Italy, Germany and Portugal acted. France and Great Britain already have put a ban on arms shipments to Spain.

Canadian Sees No War Threat

MONTREAL, Aug. 26—Hon. J. W. Fordham Johnson, former lieutenant governor of British Columbia, discounted rumors of war in Europe last night on his arrival here on the liner Duchess of Richmond.

"Far from any feeling or apprehension," he said, "I found a great cheerfulness in England, and every sign of prosperity. The people want peace, and I think if there is a will to peace it will prevail." Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Johnson spent the last three months in England.

NEW TREATY COMPLETED WITH EGYPT

Long Standing Problems With Great Britain Are Solved

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Great Britain and Egypt will sign a treaty expected to unravel several knotty problems along the "line of Empire."

Although the full terms of the friendship and alliance pact will not be disclosed for several days, it was known the formula assures protection of the Suez Canal to Britain and respects Egyptian claims to sovereignty.

Signing of the treaty will mean the fruitful end of five months of difficult negotiations.

LEAVE CAIRO

British troops, it was understood, will evacuate Cairo where they have been stationed for more than half a century to garrison the banks of the Suez Canal when barracks there are ready. The British military air base and depot at Alexandria, however, will be maintained and strengthened.

The strength of the Egyptian air force will be raised and British military instructors will transform the Egyptian army—now little more than a glorified police force —into a strong, mobile and well-equipped militia.

TO AID BRITAIN

In the event of war, all Egyptian defences will be at Britain's disposal.

Egypt has abandoned most of her claims to the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. This territory, of strategic importance because it links Egypt to the British colonies of central and East Africa, will continue to be governed mainly by Great Britain.

Twenty-three counties in five states were added during the day to official drought territory eligible for emergency federal relief.

River Yields Relative Of Okanagan's Ogopogo

Ogopogos in the Saskatchewan? Well, not exactly, but something pretty close to the fabled finny monster of Okanagan lake if you take Al. Trenton's word for it.

Slowly, hesitantly, three youngsters walked up to the desk of the city editor on Tuesday afternoon. Each looked at the other but said never a word.

"Something you wanted?" asked the editor, without lifting eyes from his task.

"Yes," answered the smallest lad, "we caught a big fish and it's a Jim Dandy. Caught it down in the Saskatchewan river just two blocks east of the Low Level bridge Wanna see it?"

"Yes! Where is it?" asked the editor.

"Aine's got it here in this basket," and the little fellow proceeded to display the catch.

"All right," said the editor, "tell it to that fellow over there," pointing to one of the reporters.

"Well, my name is Al Trenton. I'm 14 and I live at 9624 96A street, this is Arn Scott, he lives at 9626 96 avenue and this is Tom Porter, he's 14 and lives at 9628 98 avenue," said the little fellow.

"We were down catching fish at the river today and after a couple of hours we had about eight fish, and I was pulling in the ninth one, a chub, when a big fish jumped right up and swallowed it. Gosh I almost pulled me in, but Arn and Tommy helped, and we finally got it out. It started to jump around but I hit it with a brick, and it sure laid still then," said the little spokesman. "It's a big one, ain't it. Must weigh a ton. Bet it's the biggest fish caught in the river yet."

"Well, what are you going to do with it?" asked the reporter, "Take it home and have a big feed?" Al eyed the three-foot long Jack fish and deliberated for a moment.

"No, we want to sell it." he decided. "You wanna buy it?"

"No thanks!" said the newshound.

"Well, I guess we'll take it to the fish market, good bye," and Al Trenton, fisherman par excellence, led his pals to the door.

Just the same, it was some fish. And if you can't take Al's word for it, there's Arn and Tommy to back him up.

THE LEGISLATURE

The Speech from the Throne welcoming the members to the special session of the legislature is a model of brevity—also of reserve. In the latter respect at least it does no violence to recent precedent, since Speeches are no longer framed to inform legislators why they are called together or what they are to be asked to do. It could be wished that Governments generally would be as sparing of language in preparing such ceremonial messages for delivery by the representatives of the Crown.

In the customary non-committal way, mention is made of four matters regarding which it is thought desirable the legislature should take some action; distress in the drought area; the introduction of Social Credit; debt adjustment; and the reduction of interest rates. One of these may be struck from the list. The Government at last session was given power to introduce whatever Social Credit system might meet with its preference, without need of further sanction from the legislature.

So far as the Speech indicates, therefore, the presence of the members is required to consider measures to relieve drought distress, to readjust the debt adjustment legislation, and to validate the order-in-council cutting provincial bond interest rates in half. Doubt as to the legality of the latter procedure may be the real reason for calling the house in special session.

GOVERNOR LANDON'S SUBMISSION

It is easy to appreciate Governor Landon's embarrassment in criticising the policies of the Roosevelt administration. Two years ago he was an ardent advocate of New Deal legislation as the one hope of recovery. Only Washington's bountiful relief expenditures had enabled him to preserve the financial solvency of Kansas. His reputation as a thrifty politician was mainly based upon President Roosevelt's willingness to assume the burden of relief costs for his state. The memory of these past favors embarrasses Governor Landon, and robs his criticisms of the fervency of earnest conviction.

But Mr. Landon, who was the sole Republican governor to be elected in the United States in 1934, will nonetheless be a formidable candidate for the presidency. Victory has always been his habit, and his advocacy of cautious reform is daily commanding an increasing measure of public confidence.

It is a tragedy that the Republican party has made him accept a platform that is fatal to constructive legislation, though in his speech of acceptance he interpreted some planks in the platform in ways the authors can little relish.

Governor Landon might have bettered his prospects of becoming president if he had thrown some more "planks" into the discard.

DEMANDING THE DIVIDENDS

Social Credit members report that about 80 per cent as many persons have registered for dividends as voted at the provincial elections a year ago. Of those who voted at the elections, about 50 per cent voted for the dividends. It is not unexpected, nor anything of a mystery, that they are now asking for what they voted for.

If the plan works as those who are registering hope it will work, there will be no trouble getting the other 20 per cent to register, along with any others who may be eligible but who were not on the voters' list. Twenty five dollars a month, with no back-taxing and no debt increase, still sounds good to anybody.

The non-signers are not hostiles. They are only doubters who suspect the scheme looks too good to be true. If their doubts are shown to be groundless, and the dividends are distributed on the non-contributary basis promised, they will lose no time in getting on the list of recipients.

Maybe that is what Registrar Bullock foresaw when he said there will be a rush of registrants after the special session is over. Perhaps he meant the legislation to be put through this week will dispel the misgivings and make plain to the skeptical that the scheme is workable? It is to be hoped so. We doubt if he has discover that he can really get that much extra net income for life merely by asking for it?

The heavy registration that is being made is not only in keeping with the probabilities: it is altogether desirable. This assures that the Government will have the wide co-operation which the Premier has insisted the plan must have to succeed. If 80 per cent or more of the adult population accept the terms prescribed, there can be no question of the enterprise breaking down for want of general support.

The experiment, it is assured, will thus have a fair trial, under as favorable conditions as have been asked for or could be expected. Should it fail, the failure can never be charged to unwillingness on the part of the public to give it the required support.

A NATIONAL RESPONSIBILITY

The situation created by another crop failure in the large section of the west that used to be known as the "semi-arid belt" is to be dealt with as a national problem; not as a local disaster to be met first by the municipalities and provincial Governments, with the federal authority only coming on the scene to back up their efforts. The announcement, made by Hon. C. A. Dunning, is of course in line with western opinion, but should also be accepted with approval throughout Canada.

This great territory has in past years contributed to the wealth of Canada in the amount of hundreds of millions of dollars per year. Now that calamity has befallen there, it is fair that the Dominion should shoulder the burden of temporary relief, and also the cost of reclamation measures calculated to restore the area to a self-supporting and wealth-creating territory.

That is not only fair, but necessary. Successive crops failures, extending in parts over eight years, have left the local municipalities powerless, while the provincial treasuries are empty. If relief—and reclamation—are to come, the expense must come from the Dominion. There is no other available source.

Mr. Dunning's statement is a straightforward acceptance of this respensibility on the part of the Dominion Government. Grain crops having been ruined, temporary measures are to be taken, in co-operation with the provincial Governments, to salvage the stock, to move farmers to other locations where necessary, to extend relief on a normal scale to those who are without means, as well as to carry on the work of reclamation looking to the re-establishment of the country on a productive basis.

This is a national duty. But it is also a national opportunity. The "dry" belt is immensely fertile. Farming methods may have to be changed there wholesale. Measures will have to be taken to prevent drought. But the country is worth the expense. It will make a return for all the money spent in temporary relief to its afflicted people, and for all that may have to be done to correct the mistakes of the past which have left it non-productive except in seasons of ample rainfall.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

The views expressed by Mr. J. S. Cowper in this column are his own personal views, and are not necessarily those held by The Edmonton Bulletin—EDITOR.

J. S. Cowper

Money is the chief object of pursuit in this world. Even the Almighty answering the prayers of the elect for guidance, rarely calls a preacher to a place where the salary is less. A radio evangelist who claims to be able to create unlimited credit out of the end of a fountain pen, asks for coin of the realm to be sent in to him to pay for the radio.

A believer in the divine claims of Father Divine offered me as final and conclusive proof of the colored preacher's divinity the alleged fact that he can get unlimited money from nowhere, whenever he wants it, without taking up collections or accepting donations. It is real legal tender too, not fountain pen credit.

Years ago, when I was working some claims on Bernite Mountain near the Skeena river, the boys used to fell with envy of a Swede miner who never seemed to do any work, but always had ample spending money. The secret of his financial comfort was finally traced. He had a gold lode that he visited every few weeks, bringing back a sack of high-grade to his shack. He was surprised one night at work with a hammer and a nail punch, punching out the little gold stringers.

Have you read of "Death Valley Scotty," the owner of the $2,000,000 shack in Grapevine Canyon, Death Valley, California? For thirty years he has been making intermittent appearances on the front pages of the American press. Thousands of visitors have braved the 135 degrees of heat in Death Valley to visit Scotty's Moorish-Spanish castle with its nine towers, its three foot thick concrete walls to insulate it against the heat, its waterfall in the enormous living room, its swimming pool, its $50,000 pipe organ and the room known as "Scotty's" own room which was furnished at a cost of $185,000.

"Scotty" lives there with a cook and a caretaker—the one an elderly Armenian and the other a Canadian ex-machine gunner. Sometimes he employs a band of Indians about the place.

What peculiar mental quirk is it that makes a man build a castle of such magnificence in a torrid desert? And where does he get the money from, with which to do it?

There is only one more magnificant castle and show place in California. It is the San Simeon estate of William Randolph Hearst. San Simeon cost $15,000,000. There the big playboy can entertain 150 guests with saddle horses, a zoological garden, a huge lake with sailboats, an indoor swimming pool with heated seawater, several palatial private suites and guest houses and an all day and night restaurant where they can order anything they please. The one inflexible rule is that all guests must show up for dinner at night.

Hearst was a wealthy man by inheritance. The treasures of the Homestake Mine that his father helped to locate, have never ceased to pour millions into his lap. His chain of newspapers, magazines and film features have steadily added to Hearst's total. But where did Death Valley Scotty get his millions?

"Scotty" won't tell—or rather he tells conflicting stories which he loves to deny after telling. He has told of having a rich gold mine, but nobody has ever got a trace of it. "Desert rats" and prospectors trailed him without success. A fat man with a shrewd and humorous face who might pass as a shirt-sleeves sheriff in a western film, he looks as if he never handled a pick in his life. He once declared that the gold mine is a myth—then denied the denial.

But whether he has a gold mine or not, "Scotty" has money. He broke into print first in 1905 by arriving at a desert station with a pack-mule and ordering a special train to Los Angeles. He had the money to pay for one. He tipped the bell-hops with $50 bills and hired a special train to Chicago, riding in the cab with the engineer. In New York he achieved instant fame by driving through the town in a blackboard wagon, scattering gold coins from a keg between his knees as he went. Wherever he goes, and no matter how hard up he professes to be, he always carries a roll of bills sufficient to choke the proverbial horse.

He made the headlines in 1930 by announcing that he was flat broke and a few days later made them again by declaring that he was only fooling. He said he got the idea from a play in Chicago where a rich man went broke, and he wanted to see how his friends would take the announcement.

This much is known of Death Valley Scotty. He was born in Covington, Kentucky, sixty years ago. His name is Scott. He went as a boy to Northern Nevada and got a job herding cattle. As a youngster of 12, herding cattle, he got his first view of Death Valley.

For years after that, he toured the world as a dare-devil rider with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show.

Having money enough to hire special trains, throw away gold coins on the streets, tip bellboys with $50 bills and build a $2,000,000 mansion in the desert doesn't mean that he is always rash with his money.

Scotty has an elder brother, Warren A. Scott, living on relief in Reno, in a 6 by 9 shack with an oil stove. Warren says that "Scotty never in God's world had a gold mine. He is a pretty clever man and you gotta hand it to him for keeping his information under cover.

Can it be that Scotty tumbled on the principles of fountain pen money while riding the range, and has secretly and selfishly been exploiting it for his own use, all these years.

Five Meals A Day

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

Many of you will have read recent news dispatches commenting on the report that workers seem to be more efficient when taking as many as five meals a day. This report was made by Doctors Haggard and Greenberg of The Department of Applied Physiology of Yale.

Dr. F. McCoy

The workers tested were engaged in the sewing of the canvas tops of tennis shoes and the test, which lasted for ten weeks, appeared to show that those who eat oftener get less tired than those taking the customary three meals a day. Therefore, the latest advice being given is to increase the number of times that you eat daily.

It is pointed out that the three meal a day plan is largely restricted to America and that in many countries such as Germany, France and England, the average number of daily meals is five or more.

In studying the advisability of changing our eating schedule to add the extra meals, there are many factors to consider. Undoubtedly, primitive man ate when he felt like it or when he could get food. As modern business developed, it gradually became the custom to fit the meals to the business schedule and the three meal a day schedule was the one found most convenient for most workers.

One of the first modifications of this plan was brought out by Dr. Dewey who advocated the "No Breakfast Plan." He had many disciples and pointed out that many people benefit in health by omitting the morning meal, thus arbitrarily arranging a two meal a day schedule. Probably it is a good idea for many people who are not hungry in the morning to omit breakfast, however, such lack of hunger is not normal and undoubtedly results from an unwise selection of foods for the dinner meal of the evening before. If there is any time of the day when we should be naturally hungry it is after the fast from the night meal to breakfast time.

There have been enthusiasts who have claimed that they felt best of all while taking only one meal a day. Incidentally, many owners of dogs follow this schedule in feeding their animals, which receive only one large meal per day.

Those with stomach ulcers or with marked stomach irritation, often find it a decided advantage to go on a milk diet for a time, where one feeding is taken every hour. In taking 8 quarts of milk per day, this means 12 milk meals. Sometimes the milk is given every half hour when it is desired to consume more than the 3 quarts. This probably represents the most frequent feeding schedule possible to devise.

Doctors handling nervous patients with poor digestions have found that such patients often thrive when taking several small meals a day and such patients are advised to take five or six meals a day, including one at bed time. The nervous patient who burns up energy rapidly will often seem to feel much better while following this plan. I believe that the workers most likely to benefit from the five meal a day schedule advised by the doctors of Yale, would be of the nervous type. Providing the added meals were wisely selected, they could expect to get considerable good from them.

However, you will notice that the experiment was carried on only ten weeks and this would not be long enough to make any judgment as to the final results gained when this five meal a day plan was continued over a period of years. Those workers having unusually good digestions probably do not need the extra meals and would gain in weight while taking them.

When an extra food is taken in addition to the regular three meals it is a good idea to use vegetable soup, fruit or some similar food. In fact, it is often desirable to supplement the ordinary meals by eating fruit just before retiring as suggested in my article called FRUIT BEFORE BEDTIME. The fruit will usually be found to have a mild laxative action which is helpful to those trying to overcome mild cases of constipation. Many of you might benefit from adopting the fruit plan and I suggest that you send for the article. To obtain the article, write to me and enclose ten cents and one large self-addressed envelope.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: An Interested Reader asks: "Do you recommend the dry ready-to-eat breakfast foods now on the market, such as cornflakes, etc?"

ANSWER: When these breakfast foods are re-toasted they form an excellent dextrinized article of food and may be used freely with milk or cream except by those who have a tendency to catarrh, in which case it would be best to use only a small amount of butter. Milk and cream are to be avoided by catarrh sufferers on account of their mucus-forming tendency.

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1893 one Edward Holmes completed one of the most remarkable pedestrian feats in our history, ending a walk from Montreal to Vancouver. He did the distance, 2,926 miles, in 2,700 hours, a wonderful performance considering that for many miles of the journey the only highway was the ties and bridges of the Canadian Pacific railway, there being at that time, of course, no modern roads such as now make it possible for motor car drivers to travel practically all the way from ocean to ocean all the way across the Dominion. I have no data as to the personality of Holmes, or as to what became of him after his record making walk. If any reader can supply those details and will send them to me in care of the newspaper in which this is published it will be much appreciated. The feat is one which should be included in Canadian athletic records and not lost to posterity.

Alberta's Stamp Scrip

By E. S. WOODWARD

The views expressed by Mr. E. S. Woodward in this column are his own personal views, and are not necessarily those held by The Edmonton Bulletin.—EDITOR.

The endorsement of the stamp money idea by John Maynard Keynes in his great book, The General Theory of Employemt, Interest and Money, is the most notable development in the realm of economics during the present year. The book contains a very fine exposition of the Gesell theory of interest. Any man who will read and understand Keynes on the subject of interest will be fully informed on the Gesell theory. It is true that Keynes stresses the thought of liquidity as a premium expressive of liquidity preference. With Gesell the liquidity preference idea is comprehended within a larger whole. But Keynes elaborates precisely the same basic theory. Anyone who accepts Keynes is quite definitely accepting Gesell.

PRACTICAL ECONOMICS

Mr. Keynes' book is expressedly written for students. It is a book for the class room. But its practical value is invaluable. And the London office of the Economy Movement is keeping in close touch with Mr. Keynes with a view to closer co-operation in thought and action. One of the minor differences or reservations made by Keynes in regard to the Gesell economic system concerned the idea of liquidity preference between various classes of goods apart from the intervention of money. Gesellians or Neo-Gesellians contend that such a preference will in no way affect exchange once money itself is decided on as liquidity preference. Since writing his book—which was only published this year—Mr. Keynes contended this possibility in the realm of practice that theoretically at least the other possibility might be achieved for.

STAMP MONEY AT WOERGL

Since the merits of stamp money were demonstrated at Woergl there have been thousands of money cranks ready to start ill-conceived stamp scrip ventures. These well intentioned individuals are a great danger to a scientific movement. They seem to imagine that any kind of stamp scrip managed or mismanaged anyhow, will automatically abolish the economic evils of social life. These enthusiasts exaggerate the accomplishment at Woergl and minimize the difficulties of attempting to reproduce the results in a different setting.

It is therefore desirable and necessary for all sincere workers in the realm of economic construction to first inform themselves of the facts about Woergl and then to painstakingly learn its real lessons. Fantastic stories of money magic must be contrasted with the cold facts. We must realize that the results of the Woergl experiment were real and substantial. There were solid gains attributable to understanding and executive ability. Given the same understanding and the same ability the results of Woergl can be reproduced elsewhere. Without that understanding and ability there can be no economic gains from the use of stamp scrip.

THE FACTS ABOUT WOERGL

A few weeks ago I received for preview and comment the manuscript of a treatise on Woergl by Mr. Hans Cohrsen who is secretary and collaborator of Prof. J. Irving Fisher. Presumably the treatise will be published in the near future. Readers should be sure to obtain copies. It is by far the best account of Woergl which has appeared in the English language. I returned the manuscript with the comment that it was by far the best I had read but that it still left unclarified some difficulties which I had always felt about the Austrian stamp money demonstration. I therefore sent to Dr. Jo Henri Buchi, F.S.S.—leader of the Gesell Scientific Money Association in England and a friend of John Maynard Keynes—for further information on the Woergl experiment.

TAXES OF WOERGL

The Cohrsen manuscript stated quite definitely that stamp scrip was accepted in payment of arrears of taxes. This information impressed me as of great significance. It meant one of two things. Either the arrears of taxes were not hypothecated to the banks as they invariably are in this country, or the local bank was accepting and distributing stamp money. I asked Dr. Buchi to furnish me with the facts. His reply shows that the arrears of taxes for several preceding years were not hypothecated to the bank and were therefore available to finance an extra large public works pogram during the period of the stamp money experiment. A continuation of the experiment into another year could not have provided a continuation of the same scale of public works expenditure without an increase of taxation to pay for them.

The service rendered by stamp money was nevertheless of outstanding importance. It and it alone made possible the collection of the arrears of taxes. Without stamp money the arrears of taxes would have continued to accumulate. There could not have been an increased public works program. And although a continuation of the experiment after the arrears of taxes had been expended would have meant a discontinuity of public works on the same scale, it is also true that the revival of trade and commerce already experienced rendered a continuance of public works unnecessary. Private industry—under the stamp money impetus—stood ready to employ every available resident.

My friends in the Edmonton City Hall will therefore notice that whilst I disclaim any suggestion of monetary magic at Woergl, I claim that there were very real benefits derived from the use of stamp money.

LOCAL BANK CO-OPERATED

Another fact brought out in the Cohrsen manuscript was that there was a large increase of bank deposits during the course of the experiment. This suggested to me that the local bank was lending its co-operation. Dr. Buchi's reply to my direct question on this point confirms my conjecture. The bank was a co-operative known as Raiffeisenkass linked into a larger, nation-wide association. The main aim of these co-operative banks is to collect savings and lend them on approved mortgages and secured industrial credits in their respective localities.

The existence of this bank and its willingness to participate in the stamp money plan played an important part in the success of the movement at Woergl.

ACCENTED SCRIP FOR TAX PURPOSES

Although the scrip issued by the municipality was fully covered with national money deposited in the bank, the City placed no limitations whatever on the acceptance of scrip for taxes and other civic charges. Scrip was good for every municipal obligation.

As a direct result of this unrestricted acceptance by the city, there were no restrictions on scrip circulation amongst businessmen.

JUDGMENT IN SCRIP CASE IS NOW RESERVED

claim recited there was an agreement in existence between the city and the provincial government under which the province handed over $55,000 federal grant to the city, when in fact it was shown no such agreement did exist.

He added that the clause in the statement of claim alleging the existence of this agreement was drawn from inference of documents; the order in council under which the exchange of scrip for cash was proposed, and also from the terms of the proposed agreement between the city and province ratifying this exchange.

He argued that, while no written agreement was in existence, there were frequent conferences between city and provincial officials regarding relief payments to Edmonton and submitted there was ground for the assumption of a verbal agreement.

Mr. Wilson contended there was no legal obligation on the province to pay one single cent to the city for relief from moneys received from the federal government. He expressed the opinion the city could not sustain a lawsuit against the government seeking payment of relief moneys.

Mr. Justice Tweedie stated he was under the impression a written agreement existed when he granted the injunction, but added that it would be highly technical to dissolve the injunction on this objection.

Argument was presented by Mr. Grant demonstrating the action had been properly constituted and that in this case there was no need to have the attorney general joined with the plaintiff. He quoted many cases in support of this contention.

AFFIDAVITS REVIEWED

On the objection there was misstatement in the plaintiff's pleadings Mr. Grant reviewed the affidavits submitted to the court by Mr. Watson, stating there was not one single item of these incorrect, nor was there any suppression of facts known to or which ought to have been known to the plaintiff.

He submitted the defendants could not be sustained in these objections. He further contended there were grounds for the injunction because there was sufficient evidence the city had contracted for an illegal payment under the agreement, that the agreement caused the city to be a party to a breach of trust, and also it was clearly shown it was the city's intention to circulate the certificates as money, which was an offense against the Dominion Bank act.

INNOCENT CLAIM

Mr. Grant submitted that the misrepresentation in the statement of claim was innocent and was not the only section of the claim under which the injunction could be granted. He referred to the allegation that the issuance of scrip was illegal and ultra vires of city and provincial power.

Dealing with the objection that irreparable damage had not been proven S. M. Field, K.C., submitted authorities that it was not held a principle necessary to the granting of an injunction restraining a city council from entering into a specific agreement. This principle had been recognized in the Ontaria and Manitoba courts for years, he claimed.

He quoted the case in which the city of Winnipeg was restrained from tendering a banquet to members of the Manitoba legislature, and also of the city of Toronto being restrained from donating $50,000 to a sanitarium.

MR. FIELD'S CONTENTION

Mr. Field submitted it was not necessary to show damage had been sustained, contending that prospective damage from a proposed illegal act would be sufficient for the granting of the injunction. The injunction was granted on the basis of the threatened illegal act.

In this case Mr. Field stated a grave departure from the present custom was being undertaken, there was no possibility to guage damage. Damage might happen the plaintiff, there might be benefit but the question was too great to be disposed of except through trial before a judge of the supreme court in an action brought in the regularly constituted manner.

SAYS IT IS RIGHT

He also contended it was right an injunction should be granted if there is fair and reasonable doubt of the power of the city to enter into the agreement with the province. He asserted there was nothing in the Relief Act, 1933, which gave the city such power. He asked why the government had carefully refrained from giving scrip in lieu of cash, unless it was because it was to throw onus on the city through the agreement under which the city agreed to purchase the scrip with moneys granted by the province for relief purposes.

Dealing with the argument that the action had not been properly constituted because the attorney general had not been made a party to it Mr. Grant quoted from the Canadian Encyclopedic Digest that "where the payment was beyond the powers of the City Council any ratepayer might intervene to prevent such payment. He referred to a number of cases supporting this proposition among them being that of McIllwreath versus Hart, a supreme court of Canada decision, which, he held, was law binding on this case.

NOT LINKED UP

Mr. Grant stated that in the present action the interests of the plaintiff were not linked up with the general public and it was not, therefore, necessary to have the attorney general joined to the action. Gases quoted by counsel for the parties opposed to the injunction, he said, bore out this contention rather than supported it, adding that in the case of McIllwreath versus Hart the issue was clearly defined. This is the law of Canada, and on that basis I submit this action has been properly framed, stated Mr. Grant.

On the question that the plaintiff had misstated his case Mr. Grant contended there had been no misstatement or suppression of material facts. All this objection of counsel opposed to the injunction means, he said, is that if the plaintiff has misstated facts in his affidavits or produced untrue evidence without which the court would not have granted the injunction, the injunction ought to be dissolved, but there is no misstatement.

The plaintiff swore he was a burgess of Edmonton. Other affidavits identified the documents and the evidence before the court. There has been no misstatement of fact or supprssion of any material facts known to or which ought to have been known to the plaintiff.

The court was not mislead or deceived, he contended, and asked that this objection be overruled. He quoted many cases in support of his contention.

SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE

Mr. Grant submitted there was sufficient evidence of illegal payment contracted for by the city under the agreement which would justify the granting of the injunction. "In addition, he argued, the agreement caused the city to be a party to a breach of trust, because, under the agreement it was proposed the city should pay for prosperity certificates moneys allocated by the dominion government for relief purposes in Edmonton. This was clearly indicated in order in council 1090, and subsequently borne out by the terms of the agreement with the province produced by the affidavits. This also justified the injunction, he argued.

Sufficient evidence, he said, had been produced to show the city proposed to circulate scrip as money contrary to the terms of the Dominion Bank Act which was a further ground for the granting of the injunction.

FINANCIAL BURDEN

Mr. Justice Tweedie observed the agreement necessarily imposed a financial burden on Edmonton citizens. The city if it could not circulate the certificates would have to assume liability for $850 worth of scrip stamps, and would be liable under the agreement to a possible payment of $300 monthly for two years for stamps. In the case of the $55,000 purchase of scrip there was some safeguard as the province had covenanted to redeem these early in September.

Mr. Wilson argued there will be little chance of the city having to pay stamp tax for these certificates. There was nothing in the order in council under which the agreement with the city was drawn which would compel the city to stamp the certificates. They could be passed on to the public by the city unstamped, he said.

JUDGE HINTS FRAUD

This drew the remark from Mr. Justice Tweedie that the city would not be a party to such fraud on the citizens. The city would be forced to stamp certificates in its possession of the date set out by law for such stamping. There is no way of telling the amount of certificates held by the city under the agreement on any such stamping day, he said.

He asked again if it was logical to suppose that an attorney general, whose government had passed the law bringing scrip into circulation, would consent to be a party to any action seeking restraint of their circulation.

He added that if the argument presented by Mr. Wilson stood good in law citizens would have to stand by and submit to measures which might bring their city to the verge of bankruptcy.

METHOD WRONG

Mr. Garside, city solicitor, argued the method of bringing the action was wrong. The procedure which should have been adopted would have been to have the bylaw authorizing the agreement quashed and then proceed through the courts to recover for damages sustained through operation of the agreement. There was no right for the plaintiff to take proceedings in the manner undertaken.

Mr. Justice Tweedie said the procedure to be undertaken would depend on the circumstances. He advanced the supposition that it should not be necessary to wait the quashing of a bylaw when damage which could not be repaired was likely to occur from action of a city council.

Without going into the merits of the scrip issued, Mr. Justice Tweedie asked counsel if some damage had not been sustained through the handing over of $55,000 legal tender for non-legal tender. He also asked Mr. Garside if there was any power in the city council to issue scrip.

Counsel engaged in the case are C. H. Grant, K.C., and S. M. Field, K.C., for Mr. Watson, Harold J. Wilson, K.C., for the province; J. N. Macdonald, T. E. Garside and G. C. O'Connor, K.C., for city officials J. J. Frawley, K.C., and W. S. Gray, K.C., held watching briefs for the province.

CATTLE THIEF ACTIVE; OLD WEST LIVES

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 26. —Police today announced a warrant had been issued for Gordon Calvert of Crookston, Ont., charging him with theft of 45 head of pure-bred Jersey cattle from Anderson's island, eight miles west of Stirling on the Trent river. It was one of the largest cattle thefts the district has known and late today police marched through dense bush near Ivanhoe where the wanted man was believed hiding.

The cattle were to be shipped from Ivanhoe to Toronto but it was during the drive to Ivanhoe they were noticed by the residents who remarked to friends in Stirling he thought it queer cattle should be moved at night and at such a fast rate.

217 Bushels Wheat On Four-Acre Plot

GODERICH, Ont., Aug. 26. — "Golden grain" is something more than a figure of speech this year in the fields of North Huron, farmers say. On the MacMurchy farm, about a mile north of Kintail, in Ashfield township, Stanley and Elwood Drennan, lessees, have just harvested 217 bushels of wheat from four acres.

enants were in constant fear of being discriminated against.

"Did the Premier of this province, prior to the election, tell the people that they would have to sign an agreement before they would be given an opportunity to participate in Social Credit dividends?" asked Mr. Bowlen.

"I contend that such contracts are contrary to the theory of good democratic government and that the Social Credit Measures Act does not give authority to enter into these covenants. Section One states definitely that all the people of the province are entitled to the benefit of the increments arising out of this association."

Charges that patronage and even espionage was being carried on in this province to an extent practiced by no other government in the Dominion, also were hurled across the floor of the house by Mr. Bowlen.

He charged that "I know that a man cannot secure employment to even haul gravel on our roads unless he is a Social Crediter." He also charged that "a campaign of intimidation is also being carried out by the government."

Mr. Bowlen, in continuing, declared that "It is a strange situation indeed when even the premier of this province stands in his pulpit on Sundays and asks the people of Alberta to boycott a newspaper because it does not agree to everything that he says and does.

"Even the attorney-general of this province threatens our judiciary. I warn this government that the people will not tolerate in this province any sign of terror or intimidation."

It was contended by Mr. Bowlen that many members of the civil service and many farmers were signing the Social Credit covenants for fear of government counter-reprisals.

URGES ACTION

Turning his attention to drought area problems, Mr. Bowlen declared the Dominion government should not be left to carry out all the relief work and that the province should purchase all available hay and coarse grain so that it would be available for stock.

Mr. Bowlen urged that free freight should be in operation so that livestock could be moved from the dry areas and that grain could be moved to ranches at as early a date as possible.

He urged that sheep farmers get the same consideration as cattlemen in the matter of transportation.

Touching on the highways question, Mr. Bowlen declared that the southern highways were in the worst condition he had ever seen them in. He specially scored the main highways from this city to Macleod. He contended that tourist trade had been immeasurably interferred with by this condition.

Turning to the promise allegedly made by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, that "every available man in Alberta would be employed by July 1, 1936," the Liberal house leader declared that official figures showed more unemployment now than several months ago.

He charged that the government was spending altogether too much on the highway between Edmonton and Millet. He charged that the estimated cost of $256,000 was too high.

the barren years through which the province has recently passed, Mr. James declared that "Beyond the clouds of gloom and despair I see the faint signs of the dawn of a better and brighter day and instead of the blackness of despair I see the light of prosperity and gladness ahead. The only way to make dreams come true is by action—immediate and concerted action and that is what we are here to get."

Dealing with the debt adjustment legislation contemplated at this session, Mr. James declared that "Without it, all our efforts to alleviate the suffering of our people will fail. With the insufferable load of debt weighing them down, our people cannot even look up to see the brightness of the new day."

NEW HOPE

"All they can do is to drudge along, with their shoulders bowed and their eyes on the ground, fighting endlessly and hopelessly to earn enough to pay into the greedy and rapacious maw of that great and insatiable power, which is so well and unfavorably known as finance—the interest or part of the interest, on that unpayable debt. Their lives become nothing but a horrible nightmare, with hopelessness as their daily companion and despair as their end."

Mr. James indicated that through the Social Credit Measures Act the government would do much to assist the people in commencing the forward journey back to prosperity.

He pleaded for co-operation at the session. "We are here, whatever our party or politics for one common purpose, the welfare and uplift of the people of Alberta and eventually of the people of the civilized world," he said. "We have one common enemy facing us—the power that has forced use into the postion of degradation and poverty in which we find ourselves today. Why quarrel about the color of our different unforms?" He pleaded for all members to advance together to turn back the common enemy for the greatest good of the greatest number.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 26.—Hugh Brewster, aeronautics inspector, just returned from Kotzebue, Alaska's northernmost aviation base, explaining how the Eskimos save the six cents it costs others to send an air mail letter.

DANACKO MUST STAND TRIAL FOR ASSAULT

Chairman of Compensation Board is Plaintiff in Case

Andrew Danacko, 37-year-old miner of Evansburg, charged with assault inflicting actual bodily harm to Dr. Victor W. Wright, chairman of the Compensation Board, following a fracas in the latter's office on August 12 last, was committed for trial at the next sitting of the Supreme Court by Magistrate A. H. Gibson in police court Wednesday. Bail was set at $500.

R. F. Jackson, counsel for the accused, asked that the case be treated as a preliminary hearing, and the court granted his request.

The complainant, Dr. V. W. Wright, told the court that on Wednesday, August 12, just before noon, the accused came to his office. "I went to the door and let him in," said Dr. Wright, "asking him what I could do for him, and was immediately assaulted by Danacko, who repeatedly struck him with his cane, breaking it over his head.

"Did you strike Danacko or in any way provoke him, asked Becker.

"No, sir I did not," answered Dr. Wright.

"That's all, Doctor," answered Mr. Jackson.

The defendant's complaint is that he hasn't been paid on a base of his loss of earnings. Is that right, Dr. Wright? asked defense counsel Jackson.

"He is being paid in accordance to the Workmen's Compensation Act," said Dr. Wright, "and I believe we have given him every consideration."

It developed during the trial that the board had decided that Danacko should receive $5.94 a month for life and he has received this amount ever since.

"Since Danacko was placed on a compensation we have paid him $1,032.67, not counting the $975.87 that was allotted to him on compensation before his pension and $512 in medical relief," said Dr. Wright.

"Do you say that $5.94 is sufficient restitution of livelihood doctor, asked Jackson.

"We have to go by the table and can't do anything about it," was the reply.

"There is a table adopted by all the compensation boards of United States and Canada, whereby the patients total disability. We have to go by that," said Dr. Wright.

Lawn Bowling

ALBERTA AVENUE

Failing for the first time during the entire season to defend the Jackson Cup, members of the Alberta Avenue Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club lost a game with Royal players at their home greens recently. Mrs. Elliot and Mrs. McKenzie skipped the winning rinks and Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Beckett were Alberta Avenue skips.

It has been estimated that losses of milk bottles by theft and breakage in London alone cost more than $62,000 annually.

Who's Who

MISS MONA MACLEOD

Clever young dramatic artist who in productions of the Edmonton Little Theatre, the University Dramatic Club and the Lady Aberdeen League has in the past few years portrayed with equal sympathy and talent parts ranging from the youthful heroine in "Captain Applejack" to the very old lady in "The Torch Bearers."

Though she enjoys doing "any part in any play" Miss MacLeod confesses that her favorite role so far has been "Consuilo," the little Russian dancer in "He Who Gets Slapped," Andreyev's play which was done at the University of Alberta for the first time in Canada.

A graduate of the University Miss MacLeod is most interested in her work as secretary to the Registrar, Mr. A. E. Ottewell, in which capacity she keeps closely in touch with the students and their affairs.

She lakes a prominent part too, in the various projects of the Cappa Alpha Theta Fraternity of which she is a charter member.

English was one of Miss MacLeod's favorite studies in undergraduate days and her love for it finds expression now in a reading group whose program this year dealt chiefly with modern European authors.

Music and art have also their appeal for Miss MacLeod.

In the field of sports she plays golf at the Highlands Club, and badminton. She is particularly fond of motoring.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. MacLeod, Miss MacLeod was born in Edmonton and makes her home with her parents at 9044 107 street.

She attended McKay Avenue public school and Victoria High school in preparation for her University work from where she was graduated in 1930 with the degree Bachelor of Arts.

SOCIETY MARKS TWENTY-FIRST ANNIVERSARY

CONJURING CREEK, Aug. 26.—Covers were laid for 100 members and former members of the Conjuring Creek Women's Institute at a banquet recently when the organization celebrated the 21st anniversary of its establishment.

A three-tiered birthday cake, lighted with candles, centred the head table and Mrs. Sangster, the oldest chartered member, had the honor of inserting the knife and cutting the first piece.

At the close of the supper an anniversary program was held in the Calmar United Church, which Mrs. W. L. Parley, the local president, opened with an address of welcome. Mrs. Ferguson, of Trochu, spoke of the work of Institute organization, and of the international conference at Washington.

The life history of the Conjuring Creek Women's Institute was read by Mrs. Ferris, who brought vividly to the minds of their listeners the memories of by-gone days.

Mrs. Rogers of Fort Saskatchewan and Mrs. Fullerton of Millet congratulated the organization on the splendid record of its work and achievement.

At the conclusion of the evening bouquets were presented to Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Fulcher and Mrs. Sangster.

Other guests from out-of-town were: Mrs. Stout of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Coote, Mr. and Mrs. J. Alpaugh and Mrs. Kane of Leduc.

Games were played in the wide lawns and after darkness set in, bonfires were lighted and a bonfire supper was served. Firecrackers helped to bring to a spectacular close a jolly evening.

Among those present were: Misses Yolande Decosse, Agnes Lavoie, Regina Legasse, Marcelle Theroux, Blanche Fortier, T. Valee, Yvette LeBel, Pierrette Benoit, Ellen McMahon, Eva Therien, Lucienne Theroux, Terese Gagnon, Juliette DeMousac, Pauline and Martha Mailloux, Amanda Gagnon, Olga and Annie Maksymuik, Yvette and Rose Carrier, Yvette Roberge, Ida Charron, Jan Keroak, Therese Primeau, Irene Gadbois, Charlotte Lachopelle.

Mr. E. M. Jones Returns From Drama School

Making beautiful wigs from ordinary mop heads, fraying crepe paper to represent ostrich feathers, spending hours merely learning how to breathe properly—it all sounds very elementary but it is part of the vast science of the theatre and as Paul Muni, Anne Shirley, Gloria Stuart and Robert Young did before them, millionaires and grocery clerks today hammer and whittle happily side by side in the workshop of the Pasadena Community Playhouse in California.

Mr. Emrys M. Jones, one of two Canadians who attended the school this summer, returned home this week bringing new inspiration to his work, as first supervisor in Edmonton for dramatics on the new school curriculum. A clever actor, director and adjudicator, Mr. Jones has for many years been prominently connected with the amateur theatrical movement in Edmonton and his appointment is widely approved in dramatic and educational circles.

"The Pasadena School is after all just a very large little Theatre," says Mr. Jones, glowing with enthusiasm for even greater expansion of the organization in Alberta.

Mr. Jones' account explodes the "insufficient funds" alibi for lack of dramatic interest—the California School produces some of its best shows on the smallest of stages. In no one of seven Shakespeare plays did they use more than three articles of furniture, and their most expensive set was made at the nominal cost of $14!

Intending primarily to attend only the festival of seven Shakespeare plays, Mr. Jones "just could not help" enrolling in all the other courses offered by the summer session, worked, as a consequence, from seven o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock in the evening and altogether "had the best time of his life."

Mr. Jones was chiefly interested in instruction in directing but in his "spare time" designed many costumes for the "Merry Wives of Windsor," which has been suggested as the opening show of the Edmonton Little Theatre this season; sketched the scenes, and made a model of the stage—including furniture!

He also took lessons in enunciation, pronunciation and breathing, to improve voice and diction, a combination of physical training, dancing and music, known as "eurythmics" and designed to promote grace and ease of movement, and fencing, to give the militant, positive, stage movements.

In the technical field, the intricacies of the mechanism of "push-stage" levers and pulleys and the possibilities of lighting effects were explored. "Special usage," that is the mode of living characteristic of every period from earliest Egyptian times, and the history of costumes, were studied.

Though screen stars do not wear green rouge and blue lipstick for their "closeups" as is fondly believed, the application of their cosmetics is fascinating. A few deft strokes of the finger, nine tenths of them about the eyes, and the demurest young lady becomes as exotic as Merle Oberon, the makeup being so invisible that she could wear it unnoticed in the street.

In between times, of course students were rehearsing their parts in scenes of classic plays which were all produced on the last day of the session.

In Hollywood Mr. Jones saw Fred McMurray and Gladys Swarthout "shooting scenes" in "The Champagne Waltz," laid in a Viennese atmosphere, and realized that "you felt like going in to one of the little shops to look at the curios." He saw other coming triumphs in rehearsal, heard concerts in the Hollywood Bowl, attended "the opera, "The Bartered Bride"; went to theatres where beer and pretzels and sandwiches were served at intermission. "I enjoyed my holiday," Mr. Jones said.

MR. EMRYS M. JONES,

prominent theatrical authority, who has been appointed first Edmonton supervisor of dramatics on the new school curriculum. Actor, director and adjudicator, Mr. Jones has for the past few years made splendid contribution to the cause of amateur drama throughout the city and will bring much inspiration to the wider field of endeavor opening before him.

Supervisor Of Dramatics

the social round . . . . .

TEA TALK ever runs down you can nearly always start the ball rolling by bringing up the subject of the Customs, and any traveller who has crossed the border will have her particular little adventure to relate. One of the best stories I ever heard was one told by a girl who was motoring south. When she crossed the line she and her companions, being absolutely hurried, took a hasty look at some iced tea in a black bottle. They stopped in at a shop, leaving their things in the car, and when they appeared again the black bottle was gone—probably it looked suspicious—but a bill was folded up in a note which read: "You don't need what's in this half as badly as I do."

But now with Customs ruling changed, tea talk walks on that aspect of "Oh, isn't it grand to be able to bring back what you want?"

The ladies seem to like this new customs regulation," stated an official at one of Canada's ports as he paused in the perusal of the long, white sheet of paper presented to him by a returning citizen who had shopped abroad.

"Just what do you include in souvenirs, madam?" asked the official, running his finger down the neatly penned list of articles with their balancing purchase prices.

"Oh, that's an assortment of gift ties and novelties in Scotch tartans, ranging from penknives to golf gadgets," laughed the newly landed passenger. "I put them all in this suitcase, they're really all the most fascinating things."

"Okay, ma'am," replied the official, glancing at the array of checks and plaids. "If they'd come from Ireland I'd have been more interested," he remarked, as he chalked the bag and turned to the next in line.

Customs examination of baggage has lost its terrors for the tourist who, with modest attempt to please friends, brings a collection of small gifts from foreign countries. Two days before landing, the sudden activity with pen and long sheets of paper began in the writing-room of a liner which docked last week. All writing desks were full, and there was a waiting line. Embarkation arrivers in demand on the decks also, for many crouched or sprawled on the hatches, busy with their "shopping lists," as the women called them. Recent acquaintance and acquaintance familiarity with pounds, shillings and pence, as well as the francs, lire and other foreign currency, were brought into the arithmetic problems. Everybody had a good time with it, and nobody seemed to mind the novel experience of working out the costs.

The news that Customs rulings could bring home goods to the value of one hundred dollars, spread rapidly in London and the House had many questions on the subject.

Officials at Montreal have had over a month's experience with the ruling and are satisfied also. They claim it has given them more work, but it is of a pleasant kind, and will be made to serve for speed and efficiency in handling of luggage at the ports.

Baggage is still examined thoroughly. The arrangement chosen by most of the women is to put all their aforetime dutiable goods in one bag, even though the officials must go through others as well.

"All we have to do now is to open the suitcase," said one traveller, "and say, 'There it is.' I'm glad to be able to show it all instead of crumpling all my frocks and gift gloves into an untidy heap to make them look worn and used."

"After all, it is something we have wanted a long time," declared another. "I used to envy my United States cousins who could shop so contentedly and shout at us any time they bought anything: 'Oh course, it is all right with our customs, we can take $100 worth back with us, you know.'

"Now we can do the same and enjoy the crossing of the border without that awful feeling of having to face the customs man."

One of the most striking impressions of a recent voyage was the difference in the manner and the methods of the passing of the customs officials, under present arrangement. It left nothing to mar the end of a perfect trip.

First Aid TO THE Ailing House

PAINTING A PLASTER WALL
By Roger B. Whitman

A new plaster wall should not be painted until it is thoroughly dry, which may take some months. The wall should start with lining the lime in the new plaster, which can be done by washing with clear, lukewarm soft water, in the proportion of 1 lb to the gallon. Enough should be made so that the wall can be well dampened. This treatment is not necessary if the plaster is a year or more old. Finally, should you give it a coat of size to close the pores. Glue is the material used, but a better size, although more expensive, is a coat of the paint thinned with ¼ as much linseed oil; that is, a pint of linseed oil added to each gallon of paint. This should have several days for thorough drying. The usual finish for a wall is a flat paint. When ordinary paint is used, three coats may be necessary for an even tone. Special paints can be had that will give a good surface, with one, or at most two, coats.

PAINT-SPOTTED BUREAU

Question—When my room was painted, a mahogany bureau was spotted with the paint. How can I get the spots off so that the bureau will look as it was?

Answer—Take off the paint spots with a razor blade, with as little damage as possible to the finish. Then rub the places with powdered pumice stone and linseed oil, working with the tip of your finger—preferably wearing a rubber glove—to restore the finish.

FINISH FOR PECKY CYPRESS

Question—I am going to have a game room in my basement, panelled with pecky cypress. What can I do to this for a finish and to make it darker?

Answer—Coat all of the dust and soft parts out of the "packs," using a small, stiff-bristled brush —possible a fine wire brush. Then wipe with a mixture of linseed oil and turpentine, half and half, with the effect on a waste piece of board. If it is not sufficiently darkening, rub with a little Vandyke brown, ground in oil.

- JASPER - JOTTINGS
BY FAY PARKER

Annual regatta held at Pyramid Lake; "Lost Lakes" find name; trip to Beauty Creek is popular among tourists; Women's Institute fair is outstanding success.

JASPER, Aug. 26.—Steady rain during the past two weeks has made the Jasper Edmonton highway almost impassable, and kept away a number of speed boats that intended to compete at the Regatta of the Jasper Park Boat club on Sunday at Pyramid Lake. Three local boats were entered, however, the winner of the Texaco cup being the "Stepina," owned by R. B. Miller. His time over the mile course was 47.5. The winner of the Shovar cup in the Fishermen's class was Jack Otto, who won two straight heats with "Cock of the North." Both boat and engine were built by the owner. Those competing in the surf board riding were unable to finish and these will be run off on Sunday, September 6, when other boat races will be held. Those still in the running are, Bert Mackenzie, Albert Cusson, Bob Newman, Miss Stella Seager, Miss Dolly Johnstone, and Mrs. Albert Baker. The Boat Club sponsored a most successful dance last Friday night at Pyramid Pines and in spite of inclement weather, a big crowd was on hand. As an added attraction, a fine floor show, with action songs and tap dancing was given.

The "Lost Lakes" have found a name, and henceforth they will be known as the Cavell Lakes, in honor of little Miss Geraldine Wells, who has guided many parties over the trail to the beautiful tarns, high on the benchlands about eight miles from Athabaska Falls. There is a lake in each of the one-half mile of the lakes. Here, about five years ago Kamloops trout were planted and now they have proven right at home in these waters and now fine catches of them reward all those who make the trip into the lakes.

Beauty Creek, fifty-five miles from Jasper town, is now at the end of the highway south towards Banff Park, and the trip to it is the most popular in the park at present. All those desiring to see the grandest part of highway now being constructed between Jasper and Lake Louise, everyone is able to catch a glimpse of the magnificence beyond, where all the great peaks are in evidence. Beauty Creek in itself is lively enough to warrant the highway route. For about one-half a mile up its course it is a series of lovely falls and cascades, with an intriguing width at every turn of the blazed trail. Next year the parks department is intending to construct a good trail along the creek, but even now the hardier ones find it well worth to push on to the very headwaters of the creek, about two or three miles beyond. Here, four great falls create a splendid picture. The first tumbles down the sheer walls of Tonquin Ridge from the big icefield and joins the creek only a few yards from the point where the three other falls enter. Then a veritable "Giant's Causeway" pours a flood of water down a steep incline and finally two more other lovely falls to the left. One spills over the rock rim, high above, through a great hole in the ledge, and descends in a series of falls giving the appearance of a white peacock.

The annual fair of the Women's Institute, which was held in the parish hall was a great success in all departments. The first prize in lawns was taken by R. D. Britton; first in flower gardens by Mr. Kiverstad, first in vegetable gardens, R. D. Britton; best window box, A. H. Webb; and W. Duncan, first in rock gardens. The needlework had a particularly fine exhibition of handicraft. In the cooking class, besides the unusually tempting looking products of Jasper ovens, the display of Jasper-grown vegetables was very noteworthy. Mrs. W. Howe took first prize in this department. Always interesting, the children's work was most praiseworthy in all divisions, and the neat, truthful sentences and cooks shows we have nothing to fear for the future. Marie Fahey of the Infants' Bridge took highly recommended. The prize essay on the subject, "Is War Justifiable or Not?" was written by Keith Wright, and the first prize poster was cleverly done by Betty Whitten.

MORE ABOUT SCRIP

For every public and private purpose within the municipality—Austrian government and railway charges etc. alone excepted—scrip passed current as valid money.

EXCHANGEABLE FOR CASH

A further guarantee of the exchange value of stamp money in the Austrian demonstration was the right extended to merchants of discounting scrip on demand at a fixed rate of two per cent. Businessmen were relieved of all anxiety as to the value in exchange. The scrip managers won the confidence of everybody by following a [illegible] buying policy. They took hold of a business-building idea, carefully prepared the field by publicity, secured the official sanction of a local bank which accepted the scrip in deposits at face value, regained the validity of scrip to fall civic purposes, gave it a known value in terms of Austrian currency, cut down waste and useful program of public works paid entirely in scrip, and thereby entirely banished the depression in a country where economic life was at a lower level than any country in the world.

I may refer at a later date to Dr. Buchly further replies to my questions. Sufficient at this time that the government should be reminded of the fact that its stamp scrip plan is ill-conceived and badly managed. It has not taken the trouble to learn the lesson of Woergl.

Women Who Have Made Careers For Themselves in Business Seldom Find Complete Happiness in Marriage, For They Miss The Excitement and Glamour of the Office

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a woman 30 years old. Got a job as soon as I finished high school and worked my way up to a fine and well-paying position. Like other normal women I desired a husband, home and children, so I married a fine man who has given me all I wanted, but I am sorry and ashamed to say that I am not satisfied. I am restless and bored, and long to be back in the business world again. I miss the thrill of having my part in putting over big deals. I long for the excitement of the daily contact with people coming and going. Ordering a quarter's worth of groceries seems pitifling to one who was accustomed to giving orders for bills that would run up in the thousands. Yet I love my husband, my home and my baby. What's the remedy?

A WIFE.

Dorothy Dix

Answer:

None, since one of the immutable laws of Nature is that we cannot have our cake and eat it, too. And so perforce we have to acquire a philosophy that enables us to be satisfied with the good we have if we have any peace and happiness. Otherwise we are like the dog in the old fable who lost the juicy piece of meat he had in his mouth trying to grab at its reflection in the water.

One of the curses of the modern woman is that she wants too much. She wants all that the domestic woman has and all that the career woman has, and in trying to get everything she only too often loses what she has. For, unfortunately, it is an impossibility for one man to give her thoughts, her strength, her energy, her enthusiasm, her time to both her home and her job. One or the other must monopolize her. And in consequence the other must suffer.

If a man is able to support his family in comfort, he naturally expects his wife to stay in his home and make it a happy one for him and his children instead of its being just a house. He expects her to meet him in the evening with a glad smile instead of being oft lecturing, or seeing patients, or coming home from the store or office too tired to even talk. He expects her to be with the children, watch over and guide them, instead of turning over their rearing to hirelings. He expects her to give her family the very best that is in her to give.

And, similarly, if an employer is paying a woman a good salary for doing some specific work, he expects her to give to him the very best that is in her to give. He expects her to be on time in the morning, no matter if she has been up half the night with a sick baby. He expects her to concentrate on what she is doing instead of her giving one lobe of her brain to her job and the remainder to wondering if that green girl she has just hired to look after the children will keep Johnny out of the streets and from under automobiles, and trying to remember what groceries to take home for dinner.

Every working girl hopes and expects to marry. Most of them do. Some are domestic by nature and are satisfied just to become home-makers, but there are a vast number of girls who are totally unfitted for marriage by their business experience.

They miss the excitement of dolling themselves up and going downtown to business every day. They miss the order and the routine of a store or office. They iss the thrill of seeing people coming and going continually. They miss particularly having their own money that they can spend as they please.

And, if they have been clever and have risen to important positions in their firms, they miss the drama of seeing big deals pulled off and of themselves having their own small part in the transactions. Yet they want to marry. But when they do, it leaves them flat and dissatisfied. Somehow, it seems a comedown from being "our invaluable Miss Smith" to becoming plain Mrs. Jones of no individual importance except to her family.

A woman, who had been a big buyer with her semi-annual trip to Europe, explained her reaction to her marriage to me by saying that, after being on a big job, running a two-by-four flat was like putting a thousand horsepower engine to do a one-horsepower job.

And no doubt she expressed the feelings of thousands of other women who have married and who want to live both their old lives and their new ones. The only trouble is it can't be done.

Omelet Eggs Cooked In Many Variations

By MARY E. DAGUE

You can beat an omelet — yes, indeed!—but you'll try a long time to find any other dish that beats it for the number of ways in which it can be varied.

Think of the list: plain omelet, mushroom omelet, Spanish omelet, bacon omelet, cheese omelet, jelly omelet. With its many variations, the omelet is equally appropriate for breakfast, luncheon, dinner or supper. To the added virtues of being palatable and nutritious.

Sister Mary

Omelets have just one drawback, and that is that they must be served as soon as they are prepared. You can't cook an omelet and expect it to wait 10 or 15 minutes before it's eaten and remain the tender, fluffy thing it was when it left the pan.

Here is the recipe for plain omelet, the foundation for all the others.

PLAIN OMELET

Use one egg for each person to be served and one egg for the pan. Use 1 tablespoonful hot water for each egg. Water makes a more tender omelet than milk. So for four people you would use: Five eggs, 5 tablespoons hot water, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains pepper.

Separate yolks from whites of eggs. Add water to yolks and beat until thick and lemon colored, using a rotary beater. Beat in half the salt and all the pepper. Beat whites of eggs on a platter with a wire whisk, beating in remaining salt. Heat omelet stiff. Fold in yolks of eggs and pour gently into a well greased omelet pan or spider and cook slowly until the underside is a delicate brown. Then put the pan in a moderate oven (325 to 350 degrees F.) and bake until firm to the touch. Then fold and slide onto a hot platter.

If you are giving a party breakfast a sweetbread and mushroom omelet is perfect for the affair. Make a rich cream sauce, using 1 tablespoon flour to 2 tablespoons butter and one cup milk. When the sauce thickens add ½ cup diced sweetbreads which have been parboiled and 1-2 cup mushrooms which have been sauted. Just before you fold the omelet spread with the sauce.

CHEESE OMELET

Serve this with grilled tomatoes, cauliflower in cream sauce or broccoli with Hollandaise sauce. It is good for dinner with a hearty dessert, or, without the vegetables, you will like it for a late supper.

When the omelet is put in the oven to finish cooking, sprinkle the top generously with grated cheese. Fold and serve as usual.

COTTAGE CHEESE OMELET

Before you fold the omelet spread with a generous layer of rich cottage cheese. Sprinkle with minced chives. Fold and serve.

Corn omelet is a splendid luncheon dish.

Stir one cup corn, cut from cob after boiling, into omelet mixture before cooking. Season corn well with butter and a tablespoonful or two of cream.

BACON OMELET

Cook bacon until crisp and break into tiny pieces. Add to omelet mixture before cooking. One slice of bacon for an egg is a good proportion to use.

This is good for breakfast or it makes a good supper or luncheon dish for children. Serve with a milk and apple sauce and cookies.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapes, cereal, cream, bacon omelet, toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Salmon bisque, croutons, mixed vegetable salad, buttercrotch rolls, lemonade.

DINNER: Boiled tongue with raisin sauce, potatoes au gratin, fried summer squash, golden glow salad, peach tarts, milk, coffee.

Short-Sleeved Frocks Expose Your Elbows

By GLADYS GLAD

According to a well-known globe-trotter, the Dinks women of East Africa have a terrific yen for bracelets. In fact they wear dozens of 'em on each arm—about 50 pounds' worth. And elbows since the summer season started.

Soft, smooth elbows certainly can add a lot of beauty to the arms. Yet today, unsightly elbows are the most prominent blemishes that are found on otherwise lovely arms. The elbows are subjected to a great deal of wear and tear. Friction from clothes, pressure from leaning and neglect, all tend to make the elbows rough, dry and discolored. And when they get into this condition, they detract greatly from a girl's beauty for the days of bare arms.

Every girl should give her elbows special care during the summer time. Most women neglect them all winter because they are hidden but heath long and full. But the present styles put elbows pretty much in evidence. Short sleeves, puff sleeves and sleeveless frocks are all included in the present fashions, and a girl with smooth, white elbows makes even the smartest of those frocks look like a bargain basement special.

NOT HARD TO DO

It is not very difficult to keep the elbows soft, smooth and free from discoloration if yours have become rough, dark and discolored, scrub them well each night with a stand soap, using a small flesh brush, when you take your nightly bath. After the bath, dry your elbows well, and make a paste of powdered pumice and lemon juice. Apply the paste generously to each elbow and rub briskly over the skin, so that the pumice may remove any deadened cuticle. Then permit the paste to remain on for a few minutes, so that the lemon juice may bleach any dark discolorations.

After about 15 minutes, remove the paste with tepid water and a soft cloth. Then dry each elbow and soak it for about five or ten minutes in a small bowl of warmed olive or sweet almond oil. After the soaking, massage a bit of the oil into each elbow. This should be permitted to remain on overnight. You may loosely wrap a bit of gauze around each elbow, if you wish, to keep your bed linen from becoming stained by any excess of oil. Such lubrication will restore the essential oils to the skin, and will make your elbows soft, smooth and lovely.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Teeth

Elinor: I would suggest that you have your teeth cleaned and polished by a competent dentist, in order to remove all tartar deposits. Proper brushing should then be sufficient to keep them clean and sparkling.

Figure

Helen: It is indeed possible to develop and firm the bust, and at the same time reduce the waist, hips, abdomen, buttocks and thighs. Full information on this is contained in my "New Figure" booklet, with a general reducing routine that takes off about eight to ten pounds in two weeks.

Rouge

Ruth: If your face is round and full, blend your rouge in toward your nose when applying it. This will make the centers of your cheeks seem closer together and thus reduce the apparent width of your face.

Mouth Wash

Helen: An excellent mouth wash can be made by dissolving one-fourth teaspoon of borax, one-fourth teaspoon of peroxide and one-fourth teaspoon of salt in a glass of warm water.

GLADYS GLAD.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To obtain Miss Glad's pamphlet on "The New Figure" write, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, and ten cents in coin, to cover cost of printing and handling.

Manners Of The Moment

By JEAN LYON

When the new tenant starts hosing the old tenant around.

Those foreshadded people who choose an apartment two months before the old tenants move out of it, should be kept on a leash until moving day. When they are allowed to run loose, they get the idea that the new apartment is already theirs. They want to measure the floors for rugs, and they want to measure the windows for curtains. They take a yard of worsted and handsemen chair to stand on when they start their tape measure routine. They've even been known to ask the lady of the house to help hold the chair for them.

They get the habit of dropping in every afternoon to ask about the stove or to decide how they want to arrange their furniture. They're especially bad if they are brides.

The only way to handle them is to stop answering the doorbell once they've started coming around. Tell your friends to come up the fire escape.

But remember this: When you choose an apartment that's still occupied, it's still somebody's home, even if it was for rent. It won't be yours until moving day. JEAN.

What New York Is Wearing

By HELEN WILLIAMS

Here's a yoked shirt frock any little girl would love to wear to school.

The "push-up" sleeves are so cunning. The wide box-plait effect of the skirt, is so smart and swishes about so prettily every time its wearer moves.

Navy blue pique made this practical school frock. The tied lacings at the neck and at the waist are bright red. Or if your little girl likes gay prints, make it of yellow and blue brown check or white percale with contrasting color.

Cute little gingham, chambray, percale prints, poplin, wool crepe, jersey and rayon and wool novelties, are also suitable materials that are inexpensive as well.

Style No. 2908 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards of 35-inch material.

Your Children —

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I get rather impatient with the man or woman who says, "I never had an opportunity for an education," meaning that they have not had college advantages. Just saying so is all right, but so often they imply that it is removed a fault that they can't quite forgive.

We may as well say that no one will give us a drink when there is a spring of fresh water right under our noses. Fifty years ago, or even less, the world was often too far over the hill for the individual to find it, but today, with the world surrounded by a veritable sea of books, free for the asking, I cannot refrain from answering such a complaint with, "Well, there's the library. You could very easily educate yourself."

O. R. Barton

But to be less caustic, I believe that many people are afraid of libraries. They don't know how to use them or what to ask for. Well, libraries have grown up. City libraries not only keep the books but they have organized departments now to help the vague knowledge-seeker and suggest what he needs, as well as subjects he might be interested in.

PROFESSIONAL WORK IS DIFFICULT

Of course, specialized subjects and highly professional work are almost impossible to get alone without instructors. But there still are history, geology, simple botany, natural-philosophy and natural-history. All fascinating subjects and obtainable in forms that the novice may understand. Why, the very books published for children these days are a mine for the adult.

New good literature alone is a life's study. And one thoroughly acquainted with England and American classics can well count himself educated. There is nothing on earth easier to do.

Two men met one day. One said "I've forgotten more than you ever knew." And the other retorted, "Then we're both even." And for a fact this is the truth. So don't hold your head lower than your neighbor just because he went to college. He has forgotten much that he learned. Go after him. Then read and read some more. And by-and-by you will be telling him.

I think parents could impress this on their children who cannot be sent away to school. Self education is honorable and should be attempted.

EXAMPLE FROM OWN EXPERIENCE

About a year ago I picked up at a book sale, an old English edition of Dickens's "Child's History of England." On its flyleaf is written, "To George from Grandfather, Christmas, 1878," in an old-fashioned hand. Recently I came across it in my shelves and decided to refresh my memory on ancient kings. To my utter astonishment I found that I hadn't remembered one thing. I had forgotten the order of Alfred, Edward the Confessor, Canute and Harold. I had forgotten that the Danes were as much a part of Saxon civilization as the Normans were later.

I reread in one night more than I had learned in months of school. And I pictured that little boy in 1878, when books were scarce and college, or even high school, they need not feel that the world has gone and left them. There is the library, and the information department. Use them both.

The Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

Appetite is mental, while hunger is physical. Appetite is the result of past experience, memories of good food, and not even connected with hunger. Hunger itself is a physical craving we get from contractions of our empty stomach. Appetite is a pleasant sensation, while hunger is discomfort. Many people's appetites cause them to seek food when they are not hungry at all—even after a sufficient meal has been devoured.

Contract Bridge

By E. V. Shepard

FEELING THE WAY TO TOP SCORE

Testing out the best call for the hands held by members of the declaring side is a much more delicate undertaking in duplicate than in rubber bridge. In the duplicate game that added 10 points for the first no trump trick constantly looms large when feeling the way to top score on a hand, wherever it seems as if a small slam may result at either call. At contracts lower than 6-odd, the trump call ordinarily yields one more trick at the best suit make than a no trumps. The following deal illustrates some of the details in this careful process of testing out the best final call. The hand appeared in the same contest referred to yesterday, and again Mr. Goldman was declarer, sitting East this time, in a Howell movement.

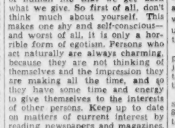

Bidding went: West, 1 Heart; East, 2 Clubs, trying to find out the nature of partner's hand, which might be a five-suiter, three-suiter, or a single long heart suit. It was evident that West must hold at least two of the three missing Aces, and in case only two aces were held, at least the Q had to accompany a black Ace (unless two very long suits were held); West, 2 Clubs, almost certainly showing four of the suit to the A-Q; East, 3 Hearts; West, 4 Hearts, as expected; East, 4 No Trumps, to discover whether the opening bidder held anything outside the hearts and clubs; West, 5 No Trumps; East, 6 No Trumps, ending bidding. Only one other pair played the deal at a small slam in no trumps. The rest of the tables played a small slam at either hearts or clubs.

The opening lead was the 4 of diamonds. Dummy's Ace took the trick. Five small tricks were next run off, followed by five tricks in clubs. Declarer discarded both his spades on dummy's two long hearts, so as not to be forced to lead spades at the end of the hand. One of dummy's spades went on declarer's single long club. Then declarer ran off his two remaining diamonds. On the lone long card of this suit dummy's last spade went, giving it a grand slam, which could not have been made if bid, as then South would have been forced to ruff spades the first lead.

Only a small slam was made at either hearts or clubs, as in both cases the defenders made an opening lead of spades. The slam in hearts made 1460 and clubs only 1220.

What To Do

Judging from the letters I receive, how to be agreeable and popular is something most of us are thinking about a good deal of the time. Fortunately it is a real law of human life that we get back what we give. So first of all, don't think much about yourself. This makes one shy and self-conscious—and worst of all, it is quite a horrible form of egotism. Persons who act naturally are always charming, because they are not thinking of themselves and the impression they are making all the time, and so they have their whole energy to give themselves to the interests of other persons. Keep up to date on matters of current interest by reading newspapers and magazines, and reading really good books to give you interesting topics for conversation. Don't talk about your affairs unless you are willing to listen to your friends talk about theirs. Avoid talking about unpleasant topics. Always take interest in the persons about you. Even to recognize that the person next to you would appreciate the olives or the nuts is a good ice-breaker.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Harvesting is now making better progress in central and other parts of northern Europe following the recent improvement in weather, but latest cables state that yields and quality show considerable variations in many countries, especially the U.K. and Germany, and in some sections there is some disposition to lower estimates. Estimates issued during the past week show smaller crops in Turkey, Switzerland and Latvia, compared with last year, while the German crop is indicated to be slightly larger than a year ago but below earlier indications.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—The latest transportation idea to reach the city supervisors calls for single-passenger street cars, to scoot along elevated runways like so many aluminum bugs.

PLANS ISSUED FOR CATTLE IN DROUGHT ZONE

ing their way to the market in a half finished condition which would have a depressing effect on prices.

THREE GRADES

Three grades of cattle will be affected by the plan: Yearlings which can be shipped east, wintered and put out on the grass next year, cattle up to two years of age which might be finished during the winter and heifers and cows up to five years of age which might be used as breeder stock outside the drought area.

The same policy will be applied to the shipment of lambs with this difference that they will only require to be fed two months to draw half the freight.

Following are the conditions of the new feeder freight policy:

1—On carload shipments of feeder cattle and feeder lambs purchased at country points anywhere in prescribed drought areas in Saskatchewan and Alberta and shipped to country points outside these areas in any province in the Dominion, a refund of 50 per cent of the actual freight charges on the shipment will be allowed.

2—This assistance will be allowed only on shipments made prior to Nov. 30, 1936, and will be retroactive on any shipments made since Aug. 1, 1936, complying with the conditions.

3—In the case of cattle, the concession will be allowed only on steers or heifers two years of age and under, except that in the case of female cattle of dairy breeds the age limit will be five years.

4—To obtain the concession, each car of yearling cattle must contain at least 35 head, and in the case of older cattle at least 25 head. Allowance within these ranges may be made in the case of shipments consisting of both yearlings and older cattle.

5—To obtain the concession, lambs must be loaded in double-deck cars, each car containing at least 275 head, all born within the year 1936.

6—The concessions will not apply on feed supplied, or on decking, or on other charges against the shipment which may be included in the freight bill.

7—To qualify for the concession, a purchase must retain the cattle for a period of at least three months and the lambs for a period of at least two months. Application for the refund at the end of this period should be made to the livestock commissioner, Ottawa, and must be accompanied by the receipted freight bill and by an affidavit on form which will be furnished by the livestock branch indicating that the ownership requirement has been complied with, and giving particulars as to age, etc., of the stock purchased.

8—Attention is drawn to the fact that the concession is not allowed on shipments made by a cattle trader as a speculation. It is important, therefore that a shipment bought co-operatively by, or on order for, two or more farmers be billed under their joint ownership, and that the number of head consigned to each ownership be indicated on the freight bill, an affidavit from each owner will be required when application for refund is made, and in the case of a co-operative shipment all of the affidavits should be forwarded at the one time with the receipted freight bill.

Applicants from Eastern Canada or British Columbia who wish to go to the drought area to personally select the cattle or lambs which they desire to purchase with assistance under this policy are also allowed the advantage of the feeder purchase policy in respect to payment of their one-way railway fare and living expenses.

Talented Kiddies Provide Gaiety At Gyro Lunch

Entertainment at the luncheon of the Gyro Service Club at the Macdonald hotel was provided by the talented kiddies of the three Gyro playgrounds.

The club were hosts to the park staff and the 20 kiddies, all under the age of 12.

Mr. Henry Ward, chief supervisor of the parks, presiding at the luncheon, gave a brief speech outlining the activities of the past season, and then introduced the various entertainers. They were as follows: The Pepin Sisters gave a well executed tap dance as the opening number, followed by Betty Holt reciting "Danse Macabre", Bernice Staunton gave an excellent song and tap dance number, "I'm a Little Big Shot Now"; Maria Christie sang "Wonderful Mother of Mine". The Sellar Sisters featured in a splendid song and tap dance number; Jeanette Pepin gave a fine acrobatting performance, while Meralyn Verneault followed with a vocal solo, "Little Old Fashioned Music Box". The climax of the program was reached with little eight-year-old Fay Smith, acrobat.

To wind up this excellent program the Gyro Club was entertained by a playlet, "Little Black Sambo", produced in the Gyro playground by Miss Kay Young, park supervisor. The cast was: Winnie McCarthy, Bobbie Hatch, Tom Charlebois and Barney Kavanagh.

DESK POSITION CAUSES WORRY TO MEMBERS

Matter of Inches Subject Of Comment in the Legislature

Exact position of the desk of S. A. G. Barnes, Edmonton member of the legislature, is causing him and Social Credit members some concern.

A month ago, Mr. Barnes, at a Social Credit members' caucus here, was read out of the party. When the special session, which opened on Tuesday, was convened, the position of Mr. Barns' desk became a question.

He had occupied a post on the flank of the party furthest from Mr. Speaker and very close to the Conservative opposition, as the government benches are so numerous that they stretch far across the floor.

When the house opened on Tuesday, Mr. Barnes' desk was about midway between his old spot and the Conservatives.

Mr. Barnes was not entirely pleased with this. Commenting on the movement, he said he had been informed that his desk was only going to be moved "a little bit." Actually it was moved about one foot.

Other members are interested to see just where it will be next time he takes his seat.

PROGRESS OF INVESTIGATION IS QUESTIONED

Edmonton Member Seeks Fulsome Data On Probe

Complete information regarding the progress made by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, in implementing Social Credit principles in this province, since his appointment as commissioner under the Social Credit Measures Act, dating from July 29, 1936, is sought by George H. Van Allen, K.C., Liberal, Edmonton, in a series of questions filed in the legislature on Wednesday.

Mr. Van Allen seeks to ascertain if Hon. Mr. Manning has commenced his investigations to formulate proposals, having as their object the increase of purchasing power of the consumer by means of Social Credit basic dividends, as set forth in Section 3 of the Social Credit Measures Act.

If any report has yet been made by Hon. Mr. Manning to the government, Mr. Van Allen desires to see it.

FURTHER DATA

Mr. Van Allen is also desirous of finding out if the government has formulated any plan or plans, or any proposal or proposals based on the principles of Social Credit, or having as their object the increase of purchasing power to the consumer by means of dividends, compensating discounts and the payment to the producer of any commodity of a just price.

If no such proposals exist, Mr. Van Allen is seeking to ascertain if there has been any such plan or proposal as aforesaid prepared or formulated for the government and if any plan has been adopted, upon whose advice was it prepared.

Mr. Van Allen also desires to know whether the government has any plan to pay a monthly dividend of $25 to every adult bona fide citizen of Alberta.

He also wants to know whether the government has taken any steps leading to the creation or establishment of credit houses in Alberta to handle the proposed dividend in "Alberta Credit" certificates.

TERM MEANING

An analysis of the term "Alberta Credit" is also sought by Mr. Van Allen. He wants to know if this expression as used in the various forms of covenant recently distributed for execution by Alberta citizens means that form of credit which arises from the association of individuals together, which enables them to make use of goods and services as when and where delivered, before they are destroyed, disintegrated or seized by others.

Several other questions along similar lines are also asked, such as whether the government decided to proceed with the registration of citizens for "Alberta Credit" dividend certificates and the payment of such dividends to registered citizens prior to the establishment in Alberta of a sound financial basis in a balanced budget.

Edmonton Aviatrix Balked In Entering Classic Air Race

Evelyn Hudson Dogged By Disasters Arrives in City

By EVELYN BUXTON

Dogged by minor disasters which became magnified since setting out last Thursday on the final lap of a long and hazardous journey that was bringing her by plane from Los Angeles to Edmonton, yet still smiling in spite of the unlucky breaks which have come her way, Miss Evelyn Hudson, daring girl pilot of Los Angeles and Honolulu, arrived in Edmonton Tuesday. It was not the triumphant arrival which reporters, awaiting her appearance for a week, had foreseen. Instead of "roaring out of the southern sky in her Fairchild monoplane," she clambered out of a bus, weary, dusty and disappointed, but still smiling even through the tale of misfortune which she had to relate.

Evelyn Hudson

Twenty-six years of age and looking younger, brown-haired, blue-eyed, and with the tan of Hawaii that won't wash off, she still smiles, even though she is now stranded in Edmonton, with the prop of her plane on its way to Los Angeles for repairs, with the rest of it convalescing in a plane shed in Bonner's Ferry, Idaho, and the Air Derby at Cleveland, Ohio, entered her application to compete for the coveted Ruth Chatterton prize scheduled to begin in Cleveland, Ohio, on Saturday of this week.

Arriving Tuesday afternoon Miss Hudson still had hopes that the plane would be repaired in time to permit her to reach Cleveland and enter the air derby.

But her hopes were completely shattered early Wednesday morning by arrival of a telegram from Dr. Williams advising her that there was no possible chance of the plane being repaired in the time available.

RADIANT POISE

Stepping off the bus Tuesday afternoon she radiated the quietly confident poise of the ideal modern miss as she greeted her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hudson of 9732 100 street, whom she has not seen for five years, and a happy smile.

It was a brave story which she told all about the unforseen restrictions of red tape and the international complications involved in attempting to take a plane across by international frontiers, and how the story, fabricated to allay the alarms of her parents concerning her long delayed arrival and the strange manner in which it was finally accomplished, burst like pricks like a punctured bubble when confronted with indisputable facts.

Arriving at Vancouver on Friday, after a beautifully uneventful trip, accomplished in one day, from Los Angeles, California, to Portland, Oregon.

HEART-BREAKING

"It was heart-breaking," said Miss Hudson, breaking down and confessing, "after the worst part of the journey seemed to be over, to be brought to earth by a series of petty incidents, when the goal of her trip was almost in sight."

At Spokane the flier and her passenger, Dr. Ward Williams, prominent Los Angeles physician, and owner of the plane, were unable to buy a map of the territory through which they wished to fly. They were advised to follow the highway to Cranbrook which, they were informed, was just across the line. After cruising fruitlessly back and forth across the line for hours with Cranbrook 100 miles farther north than they had been informed, they discovered they were running short of gas and were forced to a landing in a pea-patch near Bonner's Ferry in Idaho. An attempt to take the air here proved fatal and the plane was injured beyond chance of immediate repair.

So it was back to Spokane for Miss Hudson by bus. There arrangements were made to have the plane repaired and the propeller was forwarded to Los Angeles where it must go to the factory to be pounded back into shape. Dr. Williams remained in Spokane to supervise the overhauling and repairing of the plane, and Miss Hudson clambered aboard a bus bound for Edmonton where she is visiting her parents while awaiting word of the progress of the repairs.

Just at present Miss Hudson waits, stranded in Edmonton with all the planning and preparation which she has done during the past year completely shattered and useless developments, highly unexpected occur, Miss Hudson will have to give up, for this year, all thought of competing in the transcontinental air race.

FURTHER DATA IS SOUGHT BY TORY LEADER

Duggan Seeks Details On Various Phases of Government

Continuing his search for information on public matters, D. M. Duggan, Alberta Conservative leader, who on Tuesday filed a lengthy list of questions regarding property certificates, with the clerk of the legislature, on Wednesday filed further questions.

Mr. Duggan is seeking the amount of provincial savings certificates redeemed by the government since payment was suspended last August and the names and addresses of those to whom payment has been made.

Mr. Duggan also desires to know the financial position of the province as at the end of March last, the end of the last fiscal year, together with an explanation of the drop of more than $2,000,000 in the financial cash position.

Data on the public debt, with its present standing and recent increase is also sought.

DROUGHT AREA RELIEF PLANS ARE SOUGHT

Liberal House Leader Queries Government on Farm Questions

Extent of assistance contemplated by the Alberta government for farmers, ranchers and livestock men in drought area is being queried by John J. Bowlen, Liberal house leader in the legislature.

Mr. Bowlen, in a series of questions filed with the government, is anxious to know what plans are afoot in the matter of purchasing fodder, coarse grain or other feed for the wintering of livestock in the affected areas. He also seeks data on the names of the districts to which deliveries would be made and the price which the government will set for the resale of the fodder to farmers and ranchers.

Extent of assistance to be given to stabilize the agricultural industry by improving prices, improving markets or reducing fixed overhead charges is also asked by Mr. Bowlen.

Mr. Bowlen also wants to know what steps or what action, if any, have been taken by the government since the last session of the assembly to establish a just price for agricultural products, to provide about a reduction of interest rates on private debts and to remove the "many restrictions interfering with capital investments in this province."

HUDSON'S BAY FUR AIDE SEES 1936 LEAN ERA

R. Parsons Makes Inspection of Northern Trap Lines

Completing an inspection tour of northern trading posts of the Hudson's Bay Company along the Mackenzie river valley and the Arctic coast, R. Parsons, fur commissioner for the company, accompanied by M. R. Lubbock, arrived in the city by airplane from McMurray Tuesday afternoon.

"We had an extremely pleasant and rather uneventful trip," said Mr. Parsons when interviewed in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday morning. "Nothing unusual happened, and we had a very fine time."

"We went down the Athabasca river in the company boat from Waterways and then down the Mackenzie to Fitzgerald, from there we took our own transportation to Rigby, and then took a plane to Aklavik."

When asked how the fur catch was this season he replied that it was a little below normal. "Do you think, in the near future, say, that the cause of this is that too many furs are being taken out?"

"No," replied Mr. Parsons "it is principally known fluctuation among persons who have spent much time in the fur business, that there is a cycle in the abundance of animal life. There are the fat years and the lean years. This is a lean year. It is a perfectly natural and normal occurrence.

"Conservation measures have been taken for the protection of furs, and there are game preserves throughout the north, so I don't think there is any chance of the supply giving out."

ICE CONDITIONS

Ice conditions in the Arctic Ocean are giving the company a lot of trouble this summer. There is an ice barrier between Victoria land and Canada, which is impassible. The company used to bring their supplies from the Pacific coast around Alaska, and down the Arctic coast from there, but now they run them down the Mackenzie, and there contact ocean going craft which distribute the supplies to the various points on the coast.

But the barrier of ice has held up the distributing boats, and so far they have not been able to unload till freeze up, and then get their supplies over the ice. We flew in. He has been told that the reindeer herd was to the natives, and of the work and progress being made with the natives of the north.

"He has done a great work in the northland," said Mr. Parsons. "They have built a wonderful school at Aklavik, and when we left they had already completed the framework of a 48-bed hospital."

Despite the fact that the barren lands are all that their name implies, the people of the northland are "the happiest in the world," Mr. Parsons declared. They are completely self-supporting, and there is no debt.

"Meat and fish are plentiful, and with the proceeds of the fur catch, which is in itself rather pleasant work, they are able to buy all that they need." When asked if he thought Boy Week-end the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways have been authorized to offer special week-end rates, according to a statement issued today.

PEACE RIVER ROAD BAN IS NOW ORDERED

Government Closes Highway to Save Rough Travel

Stirred to vigorous action by complaints from numerous motorists, and anxious to save the road from rough travel while it is in such shape, the provincial government this morning placed a ban on the Peace River highway at Smith and Slave Lake.

"The road at these two spots is still soggy from repeated rains," a motor official explained, "and it was thought advisable to spare the road from being cut up by cars trying to force through the lanlged mud and clay.

"The motorists who have ventured to travel over it within the past forty-eight hours have not relished their experiences. However, if these ruts can be raked the road should be fit for travel sometime tomorrow."

The route to Wildwood still remains impassable. Traffic at that point has almost completely disappeared, as it is impossible to use that road without being stuck. Edson remains bumpy and rough.

The road is still heavy at Wasakatenau, Provost and Mulhurst.

Side roads out of Edmonton are still muddy, but motorists in this province are reported to be drying much more rapidly.

A detailed report as issued this morning by the Alberta Motor Association, Edmonton Branch, reads as follows: Edmonton to Athabasca, road muddy but drying fast. Edmonton to Smith and Slave Lake, road impassable and declared officially closed. Peace River route rough at Faust, Spirit River, and Grand Prairie. The road is good at High Prairie, Peace River, Grimshaw, Beaverlodge, Encon Creek, Fort St. John, Edmonton to Jasper, highway impassable at Wildwood, rough at Edson. At St. Paul road is good at Two Hills and St. Paul, but rough at Waskatenau, North Battleford, Lloydminster, Chauvin, Hughenden, Veteran, Consort, Provost and Mulhurst are in bad shape. Calgary trail is good.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

With Spanish civil war news plugging all press wires, enthusiastic groups gather on every street corner, and in every parlor, to discuss the situation, and self-appointed lecturers explain the situation by the hour. Just to get a line on what is being said the B.I.R. dashed up to unsuspecting persons and popped this one at them. "What do you think of the Spanish war situation?" Here's what they thought!

JACK LEWIS, visitor to town: I'm in sympathy with the government loyalists. After all the Spanish grandees have had their fling and as very dog is supposed to have his day, why not let the loyalists have theirs. If the insurgent faction is successful, I will mean that Spain will retrogress to the conditions that prevailed in days and times gone by.

RALPH CARLYLE, researcher: I'm too busy to bother with your nonsense. Don't you ever do anything sensible and worthwhile?

S. BRYCE, teacher: I don't think it matters a whoop-in—pardon me—if don't know much about the situation, except that apparently somebody wants to fight, so why not let them. Just so long as England doesn't get us mixed up in it, I have no objections.

* * *

GEORGE DOULIS, waiter: I don't care a thing about it. I'm in a safe spot here and here is where I want to stay. Let them go ahead and cut each other's throats if they want to, but I'll keep my fighting limited to fighting for a living.

* * *

ROBERT PROCTOR, unemployed golfer: Huh? what war? Say you should have seen me miss that six inch putt on the sixteenth yesterday, why—my where are you going . . .

* * *

TOMMY COCHRANE, banker: Well, there are a lot of national and international complications and affairs to be considered, and with the limited information I have been able to get, I wouldn't like to give an opinion. But my one hope is that it will not be exported.

BABY SUPPLIES NOT EXEMPTED

Proprietary and patent medicines, household drugs, trusses, belts, baby supplies, such as bottles, nipples and soothers will not be exempted from the provisions of the Alberta provincial government sales tax members of the Alberta Pharmaceutical Association have been notified.

A delegation from the association recently waited on the government asking that exemptions from tax be given on patent and proprietary medicines as defined by the federal act governing same, surgical appliances, and all common household drugs and baby supplies, but word has now been received from Hon. C. Cockroft, provincial treasurer, that the request cannot be acceded to.

The delegation which waited on the government was headed by President E. G. Grant of Calgary representing V. E. Bennett of Okotoks, and M. R. Maybank of Olds, registrar and treasurer of the association.

City Shrouded In Foggy Mist

A mist that shrouded downtown buildings Wednesday morning ushered in a day that was to be "fair and cool," according to the official forecast from the Highlands weather station. The best the thermometer could do Tuesday was 67 above, registered at 4 p.m. while the lowest end of the scale had the temperature resting on the 41 above mark at 4 a.m., Wednesday. At 9 a.m. the red in the day's temperature was "Clear and calm" was the prevailing condition throughout the North Wednesday morning.

CREDIT HOUSE SET-UP WILL BE PROVIDED

Elaboration of Covenants Is Proposed In Legislation

Provisions of the amending bill to the Social Credit Measures Act to be brought down at the current, special session of the legislature, will include a set-up for credit houses to administer the basic dividends in various constituencies, Premier William Aberhart declared on Wednesday.

In reply to questions, the Premier said that the bill would validate and elaborate the agreements and covenants in connection with registration for the basic dividends.

Strong probability that the bill will contain some provisions for financing the set up, was indicated in other quarters.

Final touches on the amending bill to the Debt Adjustment Act had not been made on Wednesday morning, so while the bill may be introduced and given first reading on Wednesday it will not appear in print before Thursday at the earliest.

Debate on the Speech from the Throne is expected to be concluded before the Wednesday adjournment of the week.

Neither the mover of the address in reply to the Speech, Fred Anderson, Calgary, nor the seconder, N. B. James, Acadia, planned to speak at any length.

John J. Bowlen, Liberal house leader, is expected to follow Mr. James and he will be succeeded by D. M. Duggan, Alberta Conservative leader.

While several other members are also expected to speak, indications are that all addresses will be brief and that the debate will wind up before the members adjourn for the night.

2,500 KIDDIES HOLD PICNIC AT BORDEN PARK

Empress Theatre Stages Huge Gala Event For Children

Shouting with joy and glee and singing, more than 2,500 children, marched down Jasper avenue shortly after 1 p.m. Wednesday from the Empress theatre to Borden park where they were entertained at a free show, to the front of the Bulletin offices, where they boarded street cars which transported them to Borden park for their big picnic.

John J. Bowlen, Liberal house leader, is expected to follow Mr. James and he will be succeeded by D. M. Duggan, Alberta Conservative leader.

While several other members are also expected to speak, indications are that all addresses will be brief and that the debate will wind up before the members adjourn for the night.

Notables among those attending the kiddies were, Fred Doucette, master of ceremonies, Queenie Jackson Bouvette, radio star, her husband, George Bouvette, and Edmonton's own "Radio Rascallies" Harold McMasters.

The children are members of the Empress theatre's Rhythm Club and the Princess theatre's Mickey Mouse Club.

CALGARY HUSTLES WAY INTO LEAD OVER CARDS

LOOKING THEM OVER

By JACK KELLY

Dick Speers Makes a Gesture Of Sportsmanship—Louis Still Open—Another Record

Ye Squire of Calgary and Chinook, Harry Scott, curler, turfman and sports editor of the Albertan, sends me the following comment from the scene of last night's opening game of the Northern Baseball League championship series.

Sez Harry:

"Calgary fans have been treated to a wonderful season of baseball, since the Mustangs were admitted to the Northern League, but it fell to Tuesday's game, opening of the championship playoff, to cap them all, when the Baxter-Began nine finished on the long end of a 3-1 score.

"A fair crowd, despite inclement weather viewed a hurling duel extraordinary, between Koch, formerly of the Edmonton Shastas and Malman, which was decided in favor of the first mentioned chukker by shortstop Conti who trippled in the second inning and preceded McNeil home when the latter hit to deep centre for the circuit, and in the fourth Conti cloated the ball over the left field fence.

Peter To Rescue

"Koch in allowing the northerners only three hits yielded a home run drive over the left field fence to Pete McCready and this blow saved Cards from a shutout. On two occasions when Cards threatened, Conti's fielding cut them off, as he pulled a double play unassisted and assisted for another.

"One hour and fifteen minutes after Umpire Murray Gardiner shouted "Play Ball," the fans were leaving the park in a delightful mood as Koch retired McCready via the strike-out route for the final putout of the contest. And the game was just as snappy and as thrilling as it was fast.

"Absence of D'aoust, Joyce and Lilly, who have gone to California, left the Mustangs in a crippled state, but with the consent of the Cards they capably filled their places by the addition of Semenza, Creager and Koch. Malmberg, also of the Edmonton Shastas will likely hurl for the Mustangs during the second game Wednesday night."

'Twas Tough But Admirable

When Dick Speer agreed to the Mustangs replacing their losses with Semenza, Creager, Koch and Malmberg, he may have kissed the Northern League championship goodbye. Under the league bylaws he might have forced Calgary to import players to fill their vacancies or else use local players who had not been under contract to any club in the circuit. Either of these courses would have probably made the Cardinals a cinch for the flag.

However in doing what he did Speer injected a lot of sporting spirit into the series. It was something the fans will probably remember to his credit long after they have forgotten the number of games his Cards won. In addition it makes the series a serious business and not a runaway that would have given the winners very little satisfaction or prestige. If Speer can pilot his team to the championship now, it will be a real championship team and no fooling.

Likewise it was a break which the Mustangs really deserved. Jack Began and Jack Baxter, who are personally financing the Calgary club are in the hole plenty. Just how much they refuse to say. They aren't that kind of sportsmen. If Speer had insisted on replacements from outside the league, it would undoubtedly have cost the Mustangs a sizeable chunk of cash.

Louis Has Not Learned

Harry Grayson, one of the few sport writers at the Sharkey-Louis embroglio who did not have to look at the fight through eyes slightly dimmed by devious tie-ups with Madison Square Garden or Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Club, was not impressed by Louis. He says:

"There was no change in the Louis style. He shuffled in with his left guard low, just as he did against Schmeling. He followed through with his prognathous jaw in using his crooked left jab. His chin was there to be hit, but the difference this trip was that there was no one there to hit it. Schmeling demonstrated that Louis was a mark for a right hand punch, but Sharkey kept his right frozen to his breast."

That paragraph is the most vital of all the reams of whoop-de-doop copy that has come pouring from New York. It would indicate that Joe is still the Brown Bomber until he meets championship class and then he becomes the Brown Bust. A lot of the boys pulling for Louis now seem to figure that Schmeling's win was just a horrible mistake and that by scuthing the Garrulous Gob Joe has again become the best of the present crop. 'Tis passing strange, by my sooth!

Score Another For Edmonton

Edmonton has more than one claim to sport fame. There are the Grads, the best half mile race track on the continent, swimming champions and so on, but the city now qualifies for another dominion record. It has the largest trapshooting club in the dominion of Canada, the Edmonton Gun Club which has just over 100 paid-up members and is still growing.

Derr Maxie Dubious

Possibility of a return match between Louis and Schmeling was enhanced when, just before the Brown Bomber defeated Jack Sharkey, Joe Gould, manager of Champion Jimmy Braddock, asked the New York Boxing Commission to postpone the September title bout between his charge and the German. Gould stated that the champion's left hand had been injured and that an operation would have to be performed to correct it. Here Gould, right, is displaying an X-ray photo of Jimmy's hands to Braddock, left and Schmeling.

Beantown Beats Cards In Two Games; New York Giants Boost Slim Lead

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—St. Louis Cardinals were blasted a game and a half out of the National League lead as Boston Bees belted them over in both ends of a doubleheader, 20-3 and 5-4.

A riot of 25 base hits, including seven doubles in the first inning for a new major league record, gave the Bees the opener. They put the game on ice with an 11-run assault in the seventh frame.

In the nightcap, Dizzy Dean, weakened by a recent illness, was forced to retire after the eighth inning with the score tied, and the Bees promptly sewed up the game by pushing over a run on his relief, Si Johnson.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26. — The wildest winning drive of the current baseball season carried New York Giants into first place in the National League as they opened their "crucial" western invasion with a 6-5 victory over the Reds.

The victory, achieved only after the Reds had come from behind to tie the score with a four-run rally in the fifth, was the 15th straight for the Giants, the 19th in their last 20 starts and the 33rd in the 38 games they have played in the surge that has carried them from fifth place to the league lead.

LARGEST BODY OF OLYMPIANS REACH CANADA

Without Titles, Alibis, Canadian Stars Back From Berlin

By ELMER DULMAGE

MONTREAL, Aug. 26—The first big body of returning Canadian Olympians, carrying no titles and no alibis, disembarked last night from the S.S. Duchess of Richmond and was greeted by a small group of friends. Many of the 30 athletes and officials entrained immediately for home.

The question of why Canada failed to win an event in track and field, swimming, rowing, boxing and wrestling at Berlin was answered in various ways. Frank Amyot, Ottawa's blond giant, who won the single blade paddling championship for the only Canadian victory, was not aboard. He will return early in September.

HAD BETTER CREWS

Among the first team bosses to explain his own particular disappointment was Bob Hunter, coach of the Hamilton Leander eight-oared crew, who said: "We lost because we were out there against better crews. We didn't have enough power in the boat."

Hunter and five of his oarsmen will reach Hamilton tomorrow with no excuses for failing to reach the Olympic final.

"I have not altered my opinion that this Canadian crew was better than the 1932 outfit which placed third at Los Angeles," Hunter said. "But we never dreamed of bumping into such a fleet of boats as they had in the German games. Our failure is a lesson for all rowing in Canada.

WERE FAR BEHIND

"We are far behind the Europeans in rowing and sculling," he said. "When we send a club crew to the Olympics these days, we haven't a chance. Why? I'll tell you. Club crews can't beat outfits that in every sense are professional.

"Germany, Switzerland, Hungary, Italy and Austria, for instance, selected their crews and scullers months in advance. The oarsmen then became government charges. They worked only at rowing and their salaries normally received for employment were continued.

"Of course," the winning United States crew from University of Washington boat club, "we simply were not in this category. They were just great boatloads. I think the Washington eight is the fastest in history."

Charlie Higginbottom, manager of the boxing team, denied the rumor of questions concerning Irving Pease of Toronto, middleweight who was sent home from Berlin for failure to make weight.

FALSE STATEMENT

"I see," said Higginbottom, "where Pease said the Olympic committee left him stranded in Montreal without a train ticket home. That isn't true. Pease was given transportation to Berlin and home to Toronto. But before he left for the Olympics he made a personal trip from Montreal to Toronto and back and I looked after that way. It was his lookout, not ours."

Pease will be asked to appear before amateur authorities in Toronto shortly to explain his conduct. In the opinion of Higginbottom, the boxer made no real effort to get into condition.

Coach Archie McKinnon of the track squad said the team did as well, in fact a little better, than he anticipated.

"I think Phil Edwards was one of the greatest performers in the Games," he said. "He actually made better times than he did four years before in Los Angeles. How he did it, I don't know. Phil is his own coach and he knows how to bring himself to peak condition.

"Then Johnny Loaring was wonderful, of course, getting second in the 400 metre hurdles. We were disappointed when Howie McPhee failed in the sprints, but we'll hear plenty more from Howie. Lee Orr, a point-winner in the 200 metres, is also going to turn a lot faster before long."

Percy Norman, boss of the swimmers, said he was pleased with the showing made by Jean Rice, Phyllis Dewar and Bob Pirie, though both failed to score points in the free style events.

Safeway Baseball Team Will Clash With Pat Girls

Ralph Morgan's Safeway boys, in an exhibition game which should be pretty good, if well, anykind of diamond entertainment, will meet the Muttert Pat girls at Boyle Street park on Thursday evening.

It is only an exhibition game with nothing at stake, but the boys and girls just want to have their fun—on the diamond.

Netter Like Ma

By 1938 the tennis world will see another Bundy reigning as women's champion, predicts John Hope Doeg, American men's title holder six years ago. The young'ster in question is Dorothy Ann Bundy, above, daughter of Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, queen of the net in the early years of this century, and a cousin of Doeg. The 19-year-old girl took part in the Seabright, N.J., tournament, and is expected to participate in the national singles at Forest Hills in September.

RAIN UPSETS SECOND RACE DAY IN SOUTH

CALGARY, Aug. 26.—The weather broke badly Tuesday afternoon and racing was carried on under most unpleasant conditions until almost the last contest. In addition to the grief the track management was handed out it well could be for the month of August.

The sport itself was exhilarating to a degree, with some fearfully close finishes in several events. The lead-off was marked by four steeds coming past the judges nosed apart, or, better still, inches apart. By Wire just lasted after a duel with Blue John and Dunrodle split the pair in the last jump, with Dunro sweeping up to be almost level on the wire and in front a few strides past.

GUIDESS MADE AMENDS

Guidess made amends for several costly defeats when she caught the leader (Maddage) close to home and poked her nose to the front and held it there to the end. She came home third and in the straight.

After a vexatious delay at the post previous to the third Sirloin held sway for half a mile where Escostar challenged with Westy's Tim third. Escostar worked to the front after a short-lived battle to stand off the late bid of Lady Moon by less than a length. If Lady Moon had won she would have paid $1,013 for a straight investment . . . as it was she paid almost $32 for a "show." Fountain stood still when the tapes rose and took no part in the race.

HAS WON TWO

A four-year-old maiden up to last Saturday, Home Waltz has now two wins to her credit one at five furlongs and Tuesday's at seven furlongs. She was acquired by her present owner in a "boss deal" being "swapped" for Perfect Knight at or about the Calgary stampede race meeting.

The seventh encounter saw three horses indulge in another hectic finish. Polly Flint came springing up from sixth place at the last turn to sweep over the others and win by a whisker. Silent Beauty, lurking longer than expected, was only just caught and Gardiner's Girl closed ground in a last minute bid. It was almost a repetition of Monday night's exhibition.

A genuine Stradivarius violin is worth between $40,000 and $100,000.

CHICAGO TENNIS STARS TRIUMPH

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26—Two University of Chicago undergraduates, Norbert Burgess and Norman Bickel, outhatted Bryan Grant of Atlanta, Ga., and Gil Hall of Orange, N.J., for a 6-2 4-6 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 victory in a second-round men's United States doubles championship match at Longwood Cricket club.

Another seeded team to fail during the day was the top-ranking French blend of experience, skill and youth, Jacques Brugnon and Bernard Destremau, who surrendered to John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., and Hal Surface of Kansas City, 6-8, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

The defending champions, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn advanced with a 6-2, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4 decision over Charles Carr, Hollywood, Calif., and Eugene Smith, Berkeley, Calif. Don Budge and Gene Mako of California qualified for the third round with a 6-0, 6-4, 6-0 victory over Arthur Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., and Gardner Mulloy of Miami.

Helen Jacobs, Wimbledon singles queen, and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, took their second- round opposition, Olga Kallos of New York and Eunice Dean of San Antonio, Tex., in stride, winning, 7-5, 6-2.

Kay Stammers of England and Alice Marble of Palm Springs, Calif., out-battled Norma Taubele, New York, and Elizabeth Blackman, Detroit, for a 2-6, 6-2, 6-2 second round victory.

LAWN BOWLING

The mixed tournament held on the C.N.R. ground on Saturday August 22, was a decided success. 18 rinks using the C.N.R. ground and four rinks on the Canadian Legion grounds. The prize winners were the following rinks skipped by first, Colin Allan; second, S. Stewart, third, H. Atkey on C.N.R. ground and H. Cluff on Legion ground. The committee wish to thank all who turned out to make this tournament a success and to advise that weather permitting another one will be held on Sept. 19, with entries closing on Sept. 18 at 6.00 p.m.

Lady Golfers Advance Well In City Meet

Mrs. Lowe Eliminated By Mrs. Maddocks, Who Plays Mrs. Vickers

The old golfing proverb that the low qualifyer never wins the championship has come true again. Playing in the women's city championship at the Mayfair club yesterday, Mrs. Sydney Maddocks eliminated Mrs. Harold Lowe. Mrs. Lowe won the qualifying round on Monday and she was one of the players favored to cop the city title. Mrs. Maddocks will play Mrs. Vickers of the Municipal club in the semi-final round tomorrow.

BOTH TRIUMPH

Another feature of the day's play was the victories of the Hoars, mother and daughter, who will now enter the semi-final of the silver division against each other. Mrs. Hoar defeated Mrs. Roberts to gain her position while Miss Hoar was victorious over Mrs. Johnson. The two Municipal clubers, Mrs. Vickers and Mrs. J. Watson, provided the closest tussle of the day when they battled 21 holes before Mrs. Vickers gained the verdict.

The semi-finals in the bronze division will also be played tomorrow. Miss Mary Macdonald meeting Mrs. A. Downes and Mrs. R. McPhearson meeting Miss Betty Freeman. Miss Macdonald and Miss Freeman both did well in the provincial championships and they are expected to give good account of themselves tomorrow.

In the Consolation of the silver division, Mrs. Brough and Mrs. Perry will be playing for the finalists slot while in the lower half of the draw Miss Maloney and Miss Hoar will do battle for the other position.

Play started at 9 a.m. this morning and it is expected that all the semi-final games will be completed today. The final rounds and the completion of the competition will take place on Thursday.

Mustangs Edge Out 3-1 Triumph First Game of Play-offs

Koch Twirls Thre-Hit Game For Calgary While Malman Hit For Four—Pete McCready Scores Homer

(Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin)

CALGARY, Aug. 26.—With catcher Semenza and second baseman Creager, of the Ponoka Panthers, and pitcher Koch filling the places of pitchers Joyce and D'aoust and catcher Lilly, who have left for their California homes, Calgary Mustangs opened the championship playoff in the Northern Baseball League with a 3-1 victory over Edmonton Cardinals at the Stadium Tuesday night.

And what a game it was. Greatest contest of its kind since the Ironies dominated the Western Canada Professional League. And it took only one hour and fifteen minutes to play.

Seven hits were all that the players secured in one of the most sensational hurling duels Calgary fans have witnessed and enjoyed. Koch, the former Shasta hurler, allowed the Cards but three safe blows, and Mustangs only collected four off Malman.

Conti, Mustangs shortstop was the hero of the game as he tripled in the second to lead McNeill home after the latter had driven the ball to deep centre for the circuit. In the fourth inning Conti slammed the ball over the left field fence, the longest hit ever registerd at the stadium.

Pete McCready saved the Cards from a shutout when he drove the ball over the left field fence in the second inning.

Conti in addition to being the outstanding hitter also figured prominently in fielding as he assisted for one double play and made another unassisted.

The same teams renew their struggle in the second game here Wednesday night and play the third on Thursday night. Remaining games of the best four of seven will be decided in Edmonton.

Shot Gun Men Out In Force To Set Record

City Club Now Rates the Largest In Canada

With two traps flipping out the clay birds as fast as the pullers could operate them, the Edmonton Gun Club staged its largest weekly shoot of the season on Tuesday evening with 13 five-men squads shooting right up until darkness ended the bombardment.

Edmonton now boasts the largest trapshooting club in the Dominion of Canada, with a membership that is just over the 100 mark.

On Wednesday, September 2, the city championship shoot will get underway at 2:00 p.m. sharp. This is to Edmonton what the Grand American is in the United States—the blue ribbon event of the season. Any member of the Edmonton Gun Club is eligible to compete in this classic for shotgun honors and the gold medal award. A practice shoot will be staged on Thursday evening of this week at the club grounds.

Following are the scores for last night's shoot:

Class A—C. G. McDougal, 24; Len Wise, 24; C. Craddock, 23; W. Mader, 23; Dr. Decker, 23; W. Freeman, 22; Cpl. Bowes, 20; C. E. Brown, 20; A. Gravelle, 20; F. Tull, 20.

Class A—A. Neumann, 22; W. Noak, 22; W. A. Thompson, 21; Dr. M. A. McIntyre, 21; A. Gregor, 18; W. Mc-Jean, 18.

Class B—Dr. McGinnis, 21; J. Rutherford, 21; F. Flatzer, 18; G. Flemming, 18; Dr. Messenger, 18; Bert Potter, 17; G. Roberts, 15; S. Hyland, 15.

Canada Represented By Sandy Somerville in Big U.S. Test

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—Youth took command of the situation as aspirants for the United States amateur golf championship, vacated last winter by Lawson Little competed in the sectional qualifying rounds in 20 districts.

Two California sections ran off their tests two weeks ago, determining six of the 210 players who will tee-off at the Garden City, L.I., Country Club Sept. 14 for the match play while a heavy rain which interfered the Skokie course forced two days' postponement of the Chicago district tests.

24 CHAMPS IN

With 24 former champions and British visitors exempted, 164 places were available for the successful sharpshooters in Tuesday's tests and a large part of them went to the youngsters.

Canada will be represented in the championship tourney by C. Ross Somerville of London, Ont., a former champion, who qualified automatically, by Jack Nash, also of London, Ont., who qualified Tuesday at Detroit, and by Joe Thompson of Hamilton, Ont., who won the medal in the sectional qualifying test at Buffalo, N.Y.

Top honors went to Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, a member of the Walker Cup team which will play Great Britain's squad at Pine Valley, N.J., next week. Fischer elected to play his qualifying rounds at the Country Club, Brookline, Mass. That his choice was a wise one was seen in his 36-hole score of 67-70—137.

BEATS COURSE RECORD

His morning round slashed three strokes off the competitive course record, set in 1922 by the "siege gun" Jesse Guilford. The field's next one stroke better than the pair of 69's carded by Frank Strafaci of Brooklyn, 1936 United States public links champion, in winning the metropolitan district test at Winged Foot, Mamaroneck, N.Y.

Two members of the Walker Cup squad pressed Strafaci hard for his metropolitan honors. Albert "Scotty" Campbell of Seattle, former Canadian amateur champion, was second with 72-72-144 and Reynolds Smith of Dallas tied third with 72-73-145. George Voigt also qualified safely with a 151 but Harry Givan of Seattle couldn't hit his stride shooting a 77 and 82 for a 159, five strokes above the limit.

WON AT PHILLIE

Ed White of Austin, Tex., another Walker Cup player, won his berth at Philadelphia with 152 as Johnny Emery of Oklahoma City played a tie with his townman, Joy Cole, at 146 for the final spot. Paul Charlie Yates of Atlanta had little difficulty making the grade in his home district.

Freddie Haas, Jr., recent winner of the Canadian amateur tournament at Winnipeg, qualified during the New Orleans district test.

Haas toured 36 holes at the Colonial Country club in 66-72-141, one over par.

Klem Kusek Meets Demchuck On Friday

Tough and Rough Westcott Battles Bob Cummings in Semi-Main

Klem Kusek, the louse-haired and tough 23-year-old youngster from the plains of Montana, a state in which he has campaigned to championship heights, is again the standout battler on Mike Cutcher's all-middleweight card at the Empire theatre Friday evening. Kusek meets John Demchuk, a local boy who has gained prominence down in the United States as being the most improved grappler of the year-and they are booked for the top half of the card.

But while Kusek and Demchuk wrestle the main event, they are not expected to steal all of the show's thunder. They have in a semi-main bout, Al Westcott, the Chicago tough and Bob Cummings, is entered with Westcott favored in the semi-main should give equally as good a performance as the headline grapplers.

But upon Kusek will rest much of the attention. It was Kusek who last week, when wrestling against Lord Landowne, started a near riot in the Empire which was packed to capacity. That same Kusek may and may not give Demchuk a rough mauling. At least he has a score to settle resulting from the dirty tactics Kusek employed when he and Demchuk along with three other grapplers were in a wrestle royal. That score will be settled, and you can take Demchuk's word for it.

Cummings, who took the Montana crown from Kusek this year, will also have a tough assignment in Westcott, but Bob has possibly the most friends of anyone in Edmonton and will be battling hard to win for them.

The show starts at 9:00 o'clock and the seat sale will open at Mike's early Thursday morning.

ONE DEAD, 15 WOUNDED IN CONVICT RIOT

Georgia State Penitentiary Guards Subdue Yammering Legs in Hot Battle

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 26.—State penitentiary guards killed one convict and wounded 15 in subduing a five-hour riot led by a former inmate of the United States government's Alcatraz prison last night.

W. E. McDaniel, serving four years for robbery was mortally wounded as guards let go with shotgun blasts at the yelling, stampeding convicts after Superintendent R. H. Lawrence failed in persuasive efforts to restore order in the sleeping quarters of the prison's 500 white convicts.

ESCAPED CONVICT

Lawrence attributed the trouble to "convicts who just wanted to get out" and named T. B. Burrus, recently returned from Alcatraz, the ringleader.

Burrus was brought to Milledgeville as an escaped convict upon completing a term at the San Francisco bay prison where the federal government puts away its hardened criminals.

During Lawrence's revealed efforts to address the men a prisoner shouted: "We are going to tear down the building before daybreak."

FREED PRISONERS

The rioters freed fellow prisoners from shackles and fired mattresses stacked in the middle of the floor. Convicts who refrained from taking part in the disorder quenched the flames.

At two a.m. a concentrated attack started on the main dormitory door and Lawrence commanded the guards to fire.

International Incident Seen As Protests Are Made

SHANGHAI, Aug. 26—The killing of two Japanese and wounding of two others in Chengtu, Szechuen, assumed today the proportions of a new international incident as Japanese officials prepared to lodge "vigorous representations" with the Chinese government.

Szechuen authorities notified the Chinese National Government of the affair, although details of the reported attack were lacking.

STORMED BY MOB

Yakichiro Suma, Japanese consul general in Shanghai, said "vigorous representations will be made to the National Government if it is found the Szechuen authorities were lax in protecting Japanese visitors."

In Chengtu a mob of 2,000 Chinese formed Monday night and stormed a hotel where a party of four Japanese were staying. The group consisted of two Japanese newspapermen from Shanghai, an official of the South Manchurian Railway and a Japanese businessman from Hangkow.

Dispatches from Chengtu did not indicate the identity of those slain.

The mob gathered to protest against the planned opening of a Japanese consulate in Chengtu, Japanese officials said in Shanghai.

Rescue Party Finds Four Winnipeggers

McINTOSH, Ont., Aug. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pillage and their two teen-age daughters of Winnipeg, were back here today after wandering aimlessly in the bush for 48 hours after they became lost while berry-picking.

Mrs. Pillage suffered most from the mental and physical strain and collapsed shortly before a rescue party reached her. Alone with her husband and two daughters, Eva, 15 and Betty, 12, Mrs. Pillage is under care of Dr. R. J. Bright of Winnipeg who is holidaying at a summer camp here.

RIALTO

The Rialto concludes the first of the week with "Trapped by Television" and Gene Autrey and Armida tomorrow goes into another double bill, "Counterfeit" and "Dangerous" two highly exciting films.

Briefly, the story "Counterfeit" relates the adventures of T-man Chester Morris, who gains entry into the counterfeiting ring headed by Nolan and his sweetheart, Margot Grahame, who is also a child killer. His assignment is complicated when he falls in love with Miss Marian Marsh, a girl innocent, who has been innocently involved in their activities.

In the cast are Claude Gillingwater, George McKay, Gene Morgan and Marc Lawrence.

Two stars who appear in the same picture, but never together in the same scene, is the unusual situation that arises in "Dangerous," the added feature of the bill.

The extremely fine and more strange inasmuch as both are rivals for the love of the same man. The actresses are Bette Davis and Margaret Lindsay, and the man who appears in the picture with both, but each in separate scenes, is Franchot Tone.

He is first betrothed to Miss Lindsay, a society girl, and then fascinated with Miss Davis, an actress, and breaks the engagement. Later he goes back to his first love.

CAPITOL

Refreshingly different from the ordinary run of motion pictures is the film, "The Green Pastures," showing at the Capitol today through Friday.

As a stage play, this creation of Marc Connelly's ran for more than five years. It was presented in 203 cities and towns, and as a picture will probably reach more than one hundred times that many theatres. It is predicted by the author that it will be even more successful as a picture than it was as a stage-show.

Marc Connelly himself directed the picture.

"I have high hopes for the picture," said Connelly, who won the Pulitzer Prize with the play in 1930. "There's so much that can actually be shown with the camera that could only be suggested by the spoken word in the play."

Connelly's tender, humorous, yet graphic dialogue in the stage play was transferred intact to the picture, with a little more added, since he was given free latitude. It is merely an expanded, not a different, "Green Pastures" that is shown on the screen.

PRINCESS

Hollywood's new era of entertainment, forecasting the advent of the new full-color Technicolor process, is ushered in with "Dancing Pirate," the completely entertaining comedy musical romance at the Princess theatre.

This production with its exquisite color schemes, its dancing specialties, fine music delightfully complementive story and superb cast completely justifies the early claims made for color.

The hues, varying from soft-deep shades to gayer pastels, have been applied to the mood and action of the story with such artistry that the whole effect is one grand symphony of color, music, comedy, drama, romance and dancing.

Gift Platters Are Exhausted

Owing to the unprecedented demand for platters in the Breath O' Spring Dinner ware the management of the Rialto theatre regrets that the stock has been exhausted. A new shipment has been ordered by wire. Suppers will be given to ladies attending today's performances. These will be retained until platters arrive in Edmonton. The daily papers will announce the date of arrival when all coupons will be redeemed.

It was a collegiate production of "Journey's End" that started young Bob Taylor on the road to cinematic stardom. A studio scout happened to be in the audience and he recommended Taylor to his superiors who signed him to a contract.

Taylor is one of the very few to attain stardom and, according to him, he certainly didn't do anything out of the ordinary to merit the acclaim that has been showered upon him.

"The Three Godfathers," based on the Kyne novel, comes today to the Strand theatre, with Chester Morris, Lewis Stone and Walter Brennan in the principal roles. Richard Boleslawski, noted for "Les Miserables," "Men in Exile" and "Rasputin and the Empress of India," directed it, taking his company of fifty into the heart of the Mojave desert to film the story of heroism and sacrifice.

Morris, Stone and Brennan play the three bandits who, in the desert, find a dying woman and her newborn baby, promise to get it to safety, and make their desperate trek across a blazing Hell on sand, dying one by one. ## A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL COCHRANE Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

The seal to which the rope was tied first clapped its fins and then it eyed fair Dotty just as if to say, "Well, what do I do now?"

Wee Scouty, in the meantime, was a quite excited lad because he feared most any minute, the big seal would start a row.

He shouted to the Eskimo, "How is your seal supposed to know how he can help us rescue Dotty? After all, he's dumb.

"All seals can do is balance things and waddle 'round in circus rings. I know that they learn clever tricks, 'cause I have taught them some."

Well, this seal is a smarter sort. You'll find out he's a real good sport," replied the little Eskimo. "Now, listen to my plan.

"Right o'er the seal the rope is caught. All we need do is hold it taught. It's up to Dotty, then, to come across it, if she can."

"Oh, now I see," wee Coppy cried. "Why, Dotty'll soon be at our side.

All she needs do is travel on the rope, hand over hand.

"Upon the seal we can depend, and we, of course, will hold this end. The whole thing is quite simple and I think the hunch was grand."

The Eskimo then shouted to fair Dotty, "Do you think that you can travel 'cross the rope and not fall down upon the ice?

"The going may be rather rough, but I guess you are strong enough to stand it." Dotty answered, "Oh, the rope trip will be nice.

"I'm ready, right away, to start. I only hope the rope won't part." And then the Tinies watched her as she swung into the air.

It made them hold their breath a while, and then brave Scouty, with a smile, exclaimed, "You're doing something, miss, that most tots wouldn't dare."

Dotty arrives safe and sound in the next story.

TODAY IS OURS

by NARD JONES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH HOWARD has been engaged to STEPHEN FOWLER for four years. She wants to be married and keep her job in a business office but Steve will not hear to this.

Judith meets Steve for lunch and they go over the familiar arguments. Judith points out that her friends, VIRGINIA and BOB BENT, are happily married, though both have jobs. Steve refuses to be convinced. Finally Judith threatens to break the engagement.

Judith confides in Virginia Bent. Virginia and Bob promise to drop in to see Judith that evening.

Steve arrives first. His mood is tender and affectionate and Judith finds it hard to keep to her decision.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

AT the sound of Virginia's voice, Judith and Steve sprang apart.

"Damn!" said Steve in a low voice. "She'd naturally choose this time to come popping in here. I'll skip along, Judith. I can see you tomorrow."

Judith turned in the hallway. "There's no need for your running away, Steve. Please stay a little while."

Stephen stayed, finding it impossible to do anything else. Into the little apartment, as if on the crest of a typhoon, came Bob and Virginia Bent—with Tony Lynch.

"Hel-lo, Steve!" exclaimed Toby, extending his hand. Without enthusiasm Steve shook hands with him, returning his greeting with an unenthusiastic, "How are you, Toby?" The two were as unlike as possible. Steve Fowler was tall and solid and thoughtful. Toby was small, almost round, and apparently had never possessed a continuous train of thought in his life. Yet, mysteriously and unaccountably, he managed to get along in the world quite as well as Steve.

Virginia shot a glance toward Judith. "You and Steve didn't plan on going out, did you? We thought we'd just drop in for a five-cornered chat. That thing Bob is holding behind him isn't his hat. It's a bottle of cocktails."

"And what cocktails," mentioned Toby. "The Bent Special!"

With an effort Judith tried to project herself into a lighter mood. She held out her hand for Bob's container of cocktails. "I'll chill them in the refrigerator a while. . . . There are cigarettes on the little table there."

Steve followed her into the kitchenet. "What's the idea of encouraging them to stay?" he whispered. "You know I wanted to talk to you."

Not looking at him, she opened the refrigerator door and set the bottle of cocktails against the icy pipes. "I can't send them away," she said quietly. "And I think everything was clear, wasn't it, even before they came?"

"You mean we're finished?"

"I mean we're friends. And that's all."

Steve was about to speak when Toby's raucous voice carried into the kitchenet. "If you two don't get away from that refrigerator those cocktails will have no chance at all to chill!"

Resignedly, Steve returned with Judith to the other room. He looked at Toby, his eyes clouded with ill concealed contempt. He had never cared much for Lynch, and he liked him even less now. More than once he had suggested to Judith that she should have nothing to do with him.

"But he's perfectly harmless," Judith always defended. "And he's a good friend of Virginia's and Bob's—so what can we do?"

Steve had said nothing to Judith about the story that was drifting around. It was one of those stories which a man will hide from the women of his acquaintance, no matter what he thinks of the protagonist of the story. Toby Lynch was supposed to have persuaded a girl to share his apartment with him in lieu of marriage. Part of the story was that they were very much in love, and unable to marry—but this failed to condone the matter in Steve Fowler's mind. He had never seen Toby Lynch in the company of a young woman, and this lent credence to the story rather than not. For Toby was a congenial soul who, under ordinary circumstances, would find an escort wherever he went. Steve had never discussed the story with Judith, but the rumor had persisted, drifting from one to another, and steadily gaining proportions with each new telling.

As Steve looked at Toby now, a question formed in his mind. In all the time they had known Toby, why had he never invited them to his apartment? He had visited the Bents countless evenings and often, like this, he would join them in a visit to Judith and Steve. Yet none had ever been asked to be Toby's guest. Indeed, not even Bob Bent knew just where Toby Lynch lived.

The conversation, chilled a little by Steve's silence and Judith's obvious preoccupation, went rather badly. Finally, in desperation, Bob went to the kitchenet and brought out the cocktails. They warmed the loquacious Toby into a running fire of comment, and succeeded in mellowing the Bents. But Steve drank little, and Judith always limited herself to one cocktail.

Yet Virginia made no move to leave, and Judith realized that she intended to keep herself and Toby and Bob there until Steve Fowler had departed. Plainly Virginia wasn't going to leave Judith alone with him again.

At length she set down her glass and got up. Steve looked relieved—but he was to suffer disappointment. "Judith," she said, "let's you and I go over to my apartment and scare up some sandwiches. These males look hungry, and I can tell they're dying to discuss the baseball scores."

Toby grinned at Bob. "The perfect wife," he complimented. "How does a mug like you manage to keep her?"

Virginia met this with a pleasant laugh, and steered Judith out the door. When they had gone, Bob said, "I don't keep her, Toby. She keeps herself. That's one of the advantages of having a wife who's self-supporting. She knows she can leave any time she wants to. So she doesn't leave, and she's perfectly happy."

Toby laughed. He turned to Steve specuiatively. "I've been expecting you and Judith to take the leap any day now, Steve."

Thoughtfully Steve twisted his pipe in fingers. "Well . . . you see, I don't agree with Bob exactly. I suppose Judith and I could marry if I were willing to have her keep her job. But I'm not. I've always had an idea that a man should support his wife."

"I had that idea, too," Bob said, grinning. "But Virginia convinced me that I was wrong. I've always been a weak-willed person!"

"There's nothing wrong with both the wife and the husband working," Toby insisted. "It's the solution to modern conditions. Or at least, it's been the solution for the past five or six years. This guy Dan Cupid never heard of a depression. He just goes around raising the devil as if there were no such thing as a salary cut. I think Bob's dead right, Steve." He paused and looked at Fowler. "You can carry pride too far, you know."

"It's not entirely a matter of pride," Steve told him. "I've never believed a married woman should work—not when there are thousands of single girls looking for jobs and not finding them."

"That's a specious argument," Bob put in. "Oh, I'll grant that there are some married women working in offices—married women who could get along on their husband's salary. But mostly they're women who are so well trained that their job couldn't really be filled by the average single girl looking for a job. Let's take Virginia and myself as an example. Suppose I hadn't married her She'd be working at her job, just as she is now. So what difference does it make to the unemployment situation whether we're married or unmarried. No, Steve . . . I think you're trying to work up a logical, economic argument to justify your pride."

Steve smiled slowly. "Maybe so."

"Well," put in Toby, twisting impatiently in his chair, "I'd even go one step further than Bob."

"What do you mean?" asked Steve, raising his head.

"Bob and Virginia took a big chance when they married."

"With due respect to Bob, I can't see that they did," Steve argued. "Both have jobs. Either job would probably support the two of them, if they were careful and willing to make sacrifices. I can't see that they took any chance at all."

"You're wrong, Steve," said Toby, rising and walking toward the box of cigarets on the little table. Carefully he took one up, lighted it. "Look here. It's a well known fact about human nature that people want what they can't have. Suppose Bob and Virginia had wanted to marry only because it looked as if they couldn't? Then discovered afterward they'd made the wrong move. That would have been bad, wouldn't it?"

"I'm afraid I'm not following you very well," Steve said.

"There's only one sensible solution to the problem of two people in love who can't marry for economic reasons," Toby Lynch went on. "They should simply share an apartment together, split all the expenses. Then when business returns to normal, when all the salary cuts are restored and the birds start singing in the trees, these two can look at each other and decide whether they should really marry."

"It's a nice idea for the man," Steve said quietly. "But what happens to the girl? I know it's a very modern world—but most people still think a lot of the marriage rite."

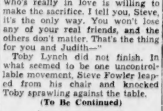

Toby snorted. "You'd be surprised at the number of such young couples right in this town today. And as for the girl—any woman who's really in love is willing to make the sacrifice. I tell you, Steve, it's the only way. You won't lose any of your real friends, and the others don't matter. That's the thing for you and Judith—"

Toby Lynch did not finish. In what seemed to be one uncontrollable movement, Steve Fowler leaped from his chair and knocked Toby sprawling against the table.

(To Be Continued)

HE GOT IT!

"There goes a fellow who chased around for years trying to land a political job."

"Well, what does he do now?"

"Nothing—he got the job."

Helen: "The boss had his pen behind his ear when he said 'Good Morning' to me."

Old Lady: "I wouldn't cry like that, my little man."

Boy: "Cry as you please; this is my way."

ALUMNI OF M'GILL WILL START DRIVE

Graduates to Erect Memorial Gymnasium On Varsity Campus

More than 100 Edmonton district members of the Graduates' Society of McGill University are expected to meet here during the next two days to undertake a drive for funds in aid of the construction of the projected Sir Arthur Currie Memorial gymnasium-armory on the Montreal campus. The drive will be conducted by Samuel Stalford, Jr., campaign director who reached Edmonton Tuesday.

"The society intends to raise $350,000 in the present undertaking, but this is only the first unit of the ultimate $1,750,000 project, said Stalford."

Inclusion of the word "armory" in the name of building, Stalford emphasized, does not mean any militaristic move. The word is included, he said, only because the estate of Lord Strathcona included a substantial bequest for an armory.

Through all passing years this bequest, originally a land grant since liquidated, has been standing idle, and it is planned to include it in the gymnasium fund through inclusion of the word in the name.

DR. TOWNSEND DEFENDS PLAN

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26 — Dr. Francis E. Townsend said from the witness stand Tuesday he was "absolutely sure" of the success of his plan to have the government pay everybody over 60 a $200 monthly pension.

Testifying in a deposition hearing in a $1,000,000 receivership suit against Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., Dr. Townsend was asked if he thought his movement would achieve its purpose through legislation.

"I'm absolutely sure of it," the 70-year-old pension plan founder answered.

"Don't you know it is economically impossible and financial suicide?" asked his questioner, Ben F. Sacharow, attorney for the Rev. Alfred J. Wright, ousted director of the Townsend organization, who seeks receivership for the movement and an accounting of $1,000,000 in contributions.

"Of course, I don't know it," replied Dr. Townsend sharply.

KITTY GREGORY PASSES AT 27

MONTREAL, Aug. 26 — Kitty Gregory, whose courage through 20 years of pain brought her a signed address from Princess Mary and a bronze medal from the Girl Guides, died today. She was 27.

Since she was seven and fell beneath a street car, forcing amputation of both legs and three fingers of her right hand, Kitty had been on the operating table at least once a year. Those were the only times she left her bed.

But Kitty smiled through it all, laughed at her pain and stitched clothes for the poor, holding cloth between thumb and little finger of her right hand and the needle in the other hand.

Toronto Heat Wave Swells Death List

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—Deaths in Toronto in July, boosted by the heat wave, reached an all-time high for a summer month, the board of health was told today by Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, M.O.H.

Only four months since 1900 have exceeded last month's toll. Of the 798 deaths in the city, 242 were directly attributable to heat, said Dr. Jackson.

Seventeen Separate Schools with Teacher Staff of 77 for 1936-7

Under the jurisdiction of the Edmonton Separate School Board there will be in operation next year seventeen schools with a teaching staff of 77. For the school year ending June 30 last there were enrolled in the various classrooms 2,718 pupils. This was 74 more than the corresponding figure for the previous year; eight less than five years ago, and 321 more than ten years ago.

The enrolment in 1935-36 was made up of 1,309 boys and 1,409 girls.

On Tuesday, September 1, the Edmonton Separate schools will reopen for the fall term.

Following is a list of the schools, their locations, the grades in each school and the names of the principals in charge.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOLS

St. Mary's High School (Girls)—103rd street. Grades IX, X, XI, XII. Principal, Rev. Mother Margaret Mary, M.A.

Commercial High School (Girls and Boys)—9859 Jasper avenue. First year, second year and special one year stenographic courses. Principal, Rev. Sister Frances de Chantal.

St. Joseph's High School (Boys) —109 street and 108 avenue. Grades IX, X, XI, XII. Principal, Rev. F. W. Daly, B.A.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOLS

St. Anthony's—84 avenue and 105 street. Grades VII, VIII and IX. All students in these grades residing in Edmonton South will attend this school.

Attention is called to the following regulations in regard to these high and intermediate schools:

1. Students will not be accepted in Grade IX unless they hold Grade VIII diploma from the department of education or equivalent.

2. Effective for the first time this year a department of education regulation requires that students entering first year commercial must have completed successfully Grade IX in the academic high schools. Students who have just passed from Grade VIII will no longer be accepted in first year commercial, but will spend another year in the academic Grade IX.

3. As in the past students enrolling in the special one year commercial course must have passed in at least thirteen high (or commercial high) school units.

NON-RESIDENT STUDENTS

Students who reside outside the city of Edmonton will be accepted providing satisfactory arrangements are made for payment of fees. These arrangements must be made at the school board office, 103rd street, before enrolment.

Fees are chargeable also against resident students:

1. Who are twenty-one years of age, or over.

2. Who have already been provided with four years' instruction in Grades IX, X, XI, and who wish to repeat any of the work of these years.

3. Who have already been provided with five years' instruction in Grades IX, X, XI, and XII and who wish to repeat any of the units of these years.

RE-ORGANIZATION

It will be noted that in accordance with the new policy of the department of education a beginning is being made this year by the Separate School Board in the reorganization of the schools into three sections—elementary, intermediate and senior high—rather than in two as in the past.

In Edmonton South—where sufficient classroom accommodation is now available — pupils will be grouped in two sections elementary grades (I-VII inclusive) in the Mt. Carmel school and intermediate grades (VII, VIII and IX) in the St. Anthony school. It is the intention of the board to organize intermediate schools in other sections of the city as soon as conditions permit.

The new grade nine courses will be given in all schools. Some time in struction in this grade is being offered. Several of the optional courses will be taught including household economics for girls and general shop (manual training, etc.) for the boys.

The centres for these courses will be:

St. Mary's High School, 103rd street, household economics and St. Joseph's High School, 109 street and 108 avenue, general shop.

SOVIET LAUDED IN EXECUTIONS

MOSCOW, Aug. 26—Soviet newspapers tonight demanded new purges of counter-revolutionaries as they praised the state for putting to death 16 conspirators condemned for plotting to overthrow the Soviet regime at the behest of the exiled Leon Trotzky.

(At Hoenefoss, Trotzky said he felt it his duty to "expose" the deaths of the conspirators who had accused him of personally plotting a reign of terror under cover of which they said he hoped to return to power in Russia.)

Meetings of workers continued to lavish praise on all concerned for executing the conspirators, and there were muttered predictions Trotzky would be brought back to Russia and punished.

PRINCIPAL IS URGED TO AID INTERMEDIATE

Superintendent McKee's Recommendation Turned Down

The recommendations of G. A. McKee, superintendent of schools, that a principal be appointed to supervise the intermediate schools at King Edward and Oliver were rejected after full discussion at the school board meeting in the Civic Block last night. A. E. Ottewell, chairman of the board, presided.

The superintendent submitted that "the administration of an intermediate school such as will be at McCauley, King Edward and Oliver, is a full time job in itself. The check up on the pupils with such a variety of options offered will have to be more exacting." The board, however, in the interests of economy, decided to have these grades directed by the male vice-principal of each respective school under the supervision of the principal of grades 1-6.

Considerable controversy was created by the discussion of the transfer of several teachers proposed by G. A. McKee. Trustee F. C. Casselman accused the superintendent of determining these transfers on a basis of unsatisfactory basis. "It's a wrong policy," he stated, "to be worrying about the teacher's salaries. This juggling with the staffs has a disturbing influence upon school efficiency. The proper policy is to retain experienced teachers where they are most able to perform their duties with satisfaction to everyone concerned."

The proposed transfer of Mr. Burchell from Garneau High school aroused particular objection.

Information was tabled that the revenue of the board for 1936 totalled $779,032.79, as compared with $781,121.74 last year. Expenditure for this year has reached $671,985.32 as compared with $851,-190.34 for a similar period last year.

The resignation from the teachers' staff of Ruth M. Cushing, Mrs. A. E. Saunders, Hazel C. McNeil and Margaret Lang was accepted by the board.

The board decided to advertise that three school stenographers are to be appointed.

SMALL FATE TO BE SECRET

Small, Toronto theatre magnate. A report is being prepared for Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck, but this will not be made public, it was learned today.

Mounted Police Get Rich Prize

HALIFAX, Aug. 26—Royal Canadian Mounted Police had $15,000 worth of contraband under lock and key today as the prize in their victory over rum-runners attempting to smuggle liquor into Nova Scotia.

For two days the would-be smugglers lay outside the 12-mile limit in their motor vessel off the Nova Scotia coast, watched by three powerful cutters, and an airplane.

Apparently realizing they could not break through the guard, the crew of the motor vessel dumped the cargo of liquor overboard and sailed away. The contraband was picked up and brought to Halifax.

Power Official Shot In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26 — A former employee broke into the private office of W. H. Fraser, British subject, manager of the Mexican Light and Power Company, it was reported last night by police and shot him through the back.

The company, which operates the street cars of Mexico City, is owned by Canadian and Belgian interests.

The assailant fired two shots which gravely wounded Fraser and then was shot with his own gun, wrested from him by an employee, police said.
